SENATE DEBATES PLAN OF PUBLICITY FOR TAX RETURNS

Couzens, Supporting Norris' Proposal, Says Revenue Bureau Disclosures Give Warrant for It.

SAYS CONDITIONS ARE GETTING WORSE

Points Acted On Include Exemption of Life Insurance Companies From Added Corporation Levy.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Declaring that a filibuster against the tax reduction bill was on in the Senate to force complete publicity of income tax returns, Chairman Smoot of the Finance Committee announced today he would force night sessions beginning Monday to speed consideration of the bill.

Starting an hour earlier than usual today, the Senate gave attention to the report of Senator Couzens (Rep.) of Michigan, chairman of the special committee which investigated the Internal Revenue Bureau.

"Collusion, dishonesty and favoritism" had been discovered in the administration of the bureau, Senator Couzens said. He supported an amendment by Senator Norris (Rep.) of Nebraska to the revenue bill opening income tax returns to public inspection.

Quorum calls were asked twice during the first three hours of his speech, but after the roll calls fewer than 25 Senators remained on the floor most of the time to participate in the debate. Smoot's announcement of night sessions was made privately while Couzens was speaking.

Couzens Supports Plan.

Continuing his speech today, Couzens used the disclosures of the Internal Revenue Investigating Committee as an argument in favor of income tax publicity.

Income tax returns never had been subjected to public inspection or audit in the 13 years the law has been in effect, he said, until the special committee inquired into them.

Senator Shortridge (Rep.) of California asked if the committee found any criminal conduct in the bureau.

"I believe there was collusion, dishonesty and favoritism," Couzens said, "but whether that is fraud I do not know."

The Michigan Senator said conditions in the Internal Revenue Bureau now are "as bad, if not worse," than when the committee began its investigation.

Standard Oil Case Cited.

Declaring a tax claims case of the Standard Oil Co. of California had been settled by "bargaining of bureau officials instead of by law," Couzens declared this procedure should be investigated further.

Sensor Moses (Rep.), New Hampshire, asked if Couzens believed the Commissioner of Internal Revenue was dishonest.

"No, but I don't think he is either diligent or efficient," the Michigan Senator replied.

Shortridge pointed out the investigation of the Internal Revenue Bureau has cost $124,000.

"Yes, and it has saved the Government more than $124,000,000," Couzens replied.

Administrative Change.

The Senate yesterday agreed to several changes in the administrative provision of the bill. One of these would exempt life insurance companies from the 1 per cent increase in the 1 1/4 per cent corporation tax already voted into the bill by the Senate.

The exemption was allowed because the companies could not take advantage of the proposed repeal of the capital stock levy. Senator Keng (Dem.) of Utah, protested against "the favored treatment of the insurance companies."

The Senate also voted to enact into law treasury regulations allowing installment tax payments on real estate transactions in which the profits accrue under the installment system and to make this retroactive to 1916.

For three and a half hours the chamber heard explanations of the compromise agreement entered into by Republicans and Democrats of the Finance Committee for a 20 per cent maximum surtax rate, which has been accepted by the Senate.

FRIEND AND CRITIC OF FASCISM DEBATE ON MERITS OF SYSTEM AT BANQUET HERE

Count Thaon di Revel Explains and Defends Mussolini Principles Against Dr. B. M. Tipler.

Two friendly speakers, before a dinner audience of some 750 persons at Hotel Chase last night, conducted a discussion of a theme which is not so freely and urbanely discussed in Italy—Italian Fascism.

It seemed from comments made after the dinner, that Count Thaon di Revel's well-balanced argument for Fascism had not won over those who thought the Mussolini program unsound and dangerous; and that those who went to the dinner as pro-Fascists went home unconvinced by the attack of the Rev. Dr. Bertrand M. Tipler, a pronounced anti-Fascist.

But everybody learned how to pronounce "Fascism," Dr. Tipler, an American of 15 years' residence in Italy, used the Italian form of the word, "Fascismo," and pronounced it "fah-sheez-mo." Count di Revel, the Italian war aviator and nephew of Mussolini's secretary of the Navy, left off the "m," but gave the same pronunciation as far as he went. Neither followed the textbook rule, by which the second syllable would be pronounced "sheez."

Objects of Dinner.

The dinner was arranged in the endeavor to organize a St. Louis branch of the Foreign Policy Association. This organization issues a weekly bulletin on international matters, and conducts discussions for the informing of foreign relations. Besides persons generally interested in the association's work, a number of guests were of Italian birth or descent, and thus had a special interest in the topic.

Some remembered the conflict of Dr. Tipler as head of a Methodist school in Rome, with the Vatican, and the attempt that was made to involve ex-President Roosevelt in that controversy when he last visited Rome. But no one referred to this, and the only question from the audience which bore on the relationship of Fascism with the Roman Catholic church was declared out of order by the chairman, Dean William Scarlett of the Episcopal Christ Church Cathedral.

The Count, a slender young man with a good command of English, but showing no signs of a ready speaker in answering questions, held of Italy five and one-half years ago, with the red flag flying over factories and municipal buildings, and the Italy of today, with the red flag flying only over the Embassy and Consulate of the Russian Soviet Government, recognized by Mussolini. He pictured a country flourishing, industries going at full speed, public works being built everywhere, trains running on schedule, and people happy and contented, with more liberty than in most parts of Europe.

He traced Mussolini's transformation from a Socialist of the extreme Left to the foremost exponent of Nationalism. He said Fascism had taken its leader from the Socialist group, its program from the Nationalists, and its revolutionary army from the middle class.

Liberalism and Fascism.

"The main and fundamental difference between European Liberalism and Fascism," Count di Revel said, "is that Liberalism believes that society lives for the individual, while Fascism believes that the individual lives for society. Liberalism is in its essence materialistic, individualistic, near-sighted, while Fascism is spiritual, altruistic and far-sighted."

In the Liberal state, as Liberalism is defined in Europe, the individual fights the rights and the state has the duties. In the Fascist state, the duties are the duties of the state and the rights are the rights of the individual. The theories are fundamentally different, and you cannot judge Fascism by Liberal standards.

"Fascism does not deny personal liberty. It denies the Liberal conception of liberty. Personal liberty is beneficial to the efficiency of the individual, and the efficiency of the individual is beneficial to the state, so the Fascist state has the individual's liberty, but the individual must be consistent with national discipline, the perpetuation of the home, the religious spirit and with the strict respect of law and order."

Increases King's Power.

The legislation of Fascism, the speaker said, increased the King's executive power, and has increased his legislative power, and has increased also the powers of the Premier. The Senate, formerly named by the King, has been made 50 per cent elective, but the election is on a district basis from that of the Chamber of Deputies, as the elected Senators represent industrial, trade and professional groups—a "trust" of the smaller towns are named by the Minister of the Interior. Rome as the capital city is governed by the central authority, somewhat after the fashion of the District of Columbia.

The press, he said, formerly was protected in "slandering attacks" by the device, long known in Europe, of titular editors, hired to go to jail when necessary, and having no connection with the management of the papers. The actual owners of papers are now held responsible, and a paper suspended three times may be suppressed.

As to secret societies, he said Mussolini had given them a legal status they did not have before. He

Latter Asserts That Italian Policy Is "Antithesis of Government by and for the People."

Italy today as much explosive as there formerly was in the Balkan states.

"In this time of general yearning for peace, Mussolini talks of the necessity and inevitability of war. In Milan he told his soldiers, 'I expect to see you next year, but where I do not yet know. Up with your glorious guns.'"

"Fascism is today reduced to a minority party, held in power by mercenaries. With the guns ready to speak, the people, the schools, the workmen, the press, are Fascist. But the spirit of liberalism is still alive. It will in time overcome this new tyranny, and the moral sentiment of the world will regard the efficient militarism of Italy as the regrettably efficient militarism of Germany."

Scattering questions from the floor, which the two speakers answered, were followed by a series of questions, framed from the Fascist viewpoint, and put to Dr. Tipler by Charles L. Trip, a St. Louis lawyer. Italian political personalities figured in these questions. One of Trip's questions was why Italian workmen voluntarily give their labor to the state if the Government was against their interests. Dr. Tipler replied that fear of the army might have influenced the working people to make this seeming demonstration of support.

Count di Revel, in a final talk, went into personalities. He said Albertini, the dispossessed editor of the "Corriere della Sera" of Milan, who now proclaims himself a constitutionalist, was in negotiations in 1921 to turn Italy over to a Bolshevik regime. He said former Premier Orlando, Italy's representative in the Paris peace conference, was an ineffective diplomat, and "the laughing stock of Versailles."

He attacked the records of other Italian statesmen of note, who were cited by Dr. Tipler as opposed to Mussolini.

One thing Mussolini has done, the Count said, is to stop the practice of young men spending 10 years or more in the universities. Two failures in examinations and the student is out, and must go to work.

"After Mussolini, what?" was a question from the floor.

The Count replied, "Mussolini is the laughing stock of a bankrupt country. He lives long enough to organize it, he will put it on its feet, and it can carry on after he is gone."

TELLS OF CLAIM OF MISSOURIANS TO CLARK ESTATE

In 1901, but was not announced until 1904, two years after a child was born.

Clark met the beauty, 35 years his junior, in a small town, near Butte, where he was attending a patriotic celebration. Her father, a physician, died shortly afterward, and Clark made the girl his ward and sent her to Paris to be educated.

Claimant Says She Will Prove Senator Was Father.

By the Associated Press. DENVER, Feb. 3.—Mrs. Addie Clark Miller, one of the claimants to a share of the $500,000 estate of the late Senator W. A. Clark, Montana copper king, who she says, is her father, resides in a cottage here.

"When the proper time comes," Mrs. Miller said, "we will prove that our mother, whose maiden name was Kate Brooks, was Senator Clark's first wife and that we are his daughters, and entitled to a just portion of the estate."

She moved to Denver a year ago from Clarkdale, and prior to that she lived in St. Joseph, Mo.

Stewartville (Mo.) Residents Differ Over Identification.

By the Associated Press. STEWARTVILLE, Mo., Feb. 3.—Differences in opinion exist here as to whether the late Senator William A. Clark is the same William A. Clark who deserted his wife and three daughters here some 50 years ago. The daughters are now claiming a share of the Clark estate.

James Wiley, banker, who furnished much of the information on which the claim was established, said that the two Clarks were the same.

"By holding my hand over the lower half of a photograph of Senator Clark, I could see some resemblance of our Clark," Wiley said. "But taking it all around, the features of the two are not very similar."

William Snow, another Stewartville citizen, who says he vividly remembers the Clark family who lived here, said that the stature and features of the two men were different. Other residents declare that it is likely that the Stewartville Clark was the same man who later became Senator.

St. Joseph Man Says Clark Is Father of Claimants.

He says the daughters are the three sisters now suing for

SIX SOLDIERS DIE AFTER DRINKING HAIR OINTMENT

Six Others at Honolulu Barracks Are Ill From Effects of Bay Rum Poisoning.

By the Associated Press. HONOLULU, Feb. 3.—Steps were taken at Schofield Barracks today to prevent the sale of all liquids containing alcohol as a result of the death yesterday of six soldiers from alcoholic poisoning.

The men died after drinking bay rum, obtained at the post exchange store where it was sold as a hair tonic.

A special board of inquiry is investigating the case. Three soldiers are still in a critical condition and three are recovering from the poisoning. Some of the sick men are also believed to have drunk koloheh, a native whisky.

The six victims, all privates, died within a few hours Wednesday night and yesterday morning. Two of them went blind before dying.

The dead: ERNEST E. DEVIO, Worcester, Mass.; JOHN J. O'BRIEN, Waterbury, Conn.; GEORGE W. HAPGOOD, Lynn, Mass.; MONT L. DUTY, Stone Branch, W. Va.; SAM G. WEIMER, Canton, O.; GEORGE S. HARRINGTON, Cambridge, Mass.

The first three were in the Twenty-first Infantry, the fourth and fifth in the Twenty-seventh Infantry and the last in the Eighth Field Artillery.

Army officials declined to give the names of the six in the hospital.

Every conceivable form of medical treatment, including enemas, was resorted to, but the soldiers' condition was so bad that they were pronounced dead by company commanders today, and 11 army post exchanges were ransacked by officers in their efforts to find the exact source of the tonic that caused the deaths of the six privates.

So drastic were the orders from commanding officers to prevent further possibility of poisoning that every soldier at Schofield Barracks, the largest military reservation of the United States, having a peace time strength of 12,000, was detailed to the parade grounds to hear right orders and warning to submit to medical examination immediately if they had imbibed any liquid believed to contain alcohol.

It was learned that customs officials will be called into conference to determine whether any "French perfume" has been smuggled into Schofield Barracks, as there are reasons to believe, it was said, that such may be found to have been the cause of the deaths.

From other sources it was learned that the army officers are working on a claim that unlabeled "French perfume" has been smuggled into the post recently.

A part of the $50,000,000 estate, Mrs. Clark ran a drug store in Stewartville and taught school some. Haynes said, "I knew him well. I also knew his wife and their children, the oldest of whom was about 5 years old when Clark deserted his family. I recall distinctly the comment caused when Clark disappeared, as it was believed he took with him a girl who lived in the neighborhood."

Haynes said Clark ran for the Legislature in 1873 but was defeated by his brother, S. W. Haynes, who later practiced law in St. Joseph and served a term as circuit judge.

SPANISH FLYERS LEAD PARADE AT RIO DE JANEIRO

Laborers Quit Work to Celebrate Arrival of Plane; Time for Departure Not Set.

By the Associated Press. RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Feb. 3.—With the precision of an express train and to the enthusiastic shouts of watching thousands, Commander Franco and his comrades flew into Rio de Janeiro at 5:25 o'clock yesterday afternoon, completing the fifth stage of their flight from Palos, Spain, to Buenos Aires, Argentina.

They left Pernambuco at 5:15 o'clock in the morning and traversed the 1254 miles to the Brazilian capital in 13 hours and 10 minutes. Commander Franco said he would do it in 12 hours.

Only 1550 miles separate the aviators from their goal, Buenos Aires, a comparatively easy flight so far as distance goes, many times attempted, but never yet made on a non-stop schedule.

While soaring over Bahia, the residents of which had hoped the aviators would make a stop, Commander Franco dropped flowers.

After being received by the authorities and numerous committees, Commander Franco, Capt. Ruiz de Alda and Mechanician Rada, led a parade through the business section of the city. The streets were lined with cheering crowds; decorations were hung everywhere and the workers abandoned their labor.

The fliers are the guests of the city, and many entertainments are in store for them. So it is not known when they will take off for the last leg to Buenos Aires.

Edwin V. Morgan, the American Ambassador, delivered the following message from Secretary of State Kellogg to Commander Franco this afternoon: "The President desires that upon the arrival at Rio de Janeiro of the Spanish aviators from their transatlantic flight you express to them his hearty congratulations and those of this Government upon the success of their undertaking."

WOMEN LAW INSTRUCTORS

California U. Has Two Members on Its Teaching Staff.

By the Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—Two of the few women law professors in the United States are members of the faculty of the School of Jurisprudence at the University of California.

In claiming this distinction for the institution, Prof. Owen Kip Murray, dean of the law school, said that the university had recognized the ability of women in the legal profession. "Women's chief difficulty in the legal field has been gaining recognition," he said. "The ability is there, but the fight is for general acceptance of that ability. I believe that in this case the West has set the pace for the rest of the country."

The two feminine law instructors at California are Mrs. Barbara N. Grimes and Miss Rosamund Purma. The only other woman to hold this position, Dean McMurray said, is on the teaching staff of the law school of the University of Texas.

NEGRO IN LOUISIANA SAVED FROM LYNCHING

He Admitted Killing White Man, but Escaped With Prison Sentence.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. COUSHATTA, La., Feb. 3.—For the first time in this section of the South since the Civil War, a confessed negro slayer of a white man has escaped the gallows, or lynch law.

State troopers and the determination of a few court officers gave Joe Hardy, 26-year-old farm hand and confessed slayer of John S. Glover, white planter, a fair chance for his life, and the result was a conviction for second degree murder with a sentence of life imprisonment, which in Louisiana means 15 years.

On Dec. 23, Hardy was preparing to move from the farm of Glover for whom he had worked. Hardy said that he had been threatened by Glover if he moved from the place. Evidence in the case was that Glover went to Hardy's home and the latter shot him. An eye-witness, the negro who came to move Hardy, said that Hardy shot Glover without provocation while the latter was unarmed. Hardy pleaded self-defense, alleging that his victim was advancing upon him with a shotgun.

Hardy escaped after the shooting, but later was captured in a distant parish and kept away until time for his trial, which occurred late in January. The first trial resulted in a disagreement. Spectators had expected the usual death penalty, and so had desisted from violence. But as the jury continued to deliberate several hours, murmuring arose which were heard by Judge J. F. Stephens, the presiding judge, and Sheriff Floyd Jones. They slipped Hardy from the courthouse by a subterranean passage.

Conspirators waited for the second trial that opened Wednesday. But Sheriff Jones had asked the Governor for troops. Seeing the last opportunity to reach Hardy, five plotters planned to get the negro, who was in jail at Alexandria, driving there in a jail before the trial, they gained admittance by saying they were officers or. Once inside, they revealed their purpose, but the latter summoned assistance and the men fled.

The plotters then drove to the home of Willie Wilson, a negro, who was to be a witness in the defense, and tortured him stretching him between a tree and an automobile axle. After they applied a hot shot battery, killing the old man. They threatened him he would be killed if he appeared at the trial. It was cided it would be best to take testimony by deposition, which was done.

The second-degree conviction of 15-year "life" sentence followed.

PASTOR URGED GET OFF THE

Some Radio Fans Object to Sermons Broadcast by Rev. E. C. Hartmann.

Sermons broadcast by the Rev. E. C. Hartmann, pastor of the First Baptist church of St. Louis, have prompted a number of radio fans to write the pastor urging him to "get off the air" and, in some instances, to demand that he be made to resign upon the Department of Commerce to revoke the church's broadcasting license.

Discussing the letters with Post-Dispatch reporter, Rev. E. C. Hartmann said that he had attracted a number of one that was signed with the name of "The Federalist," and over for investigation, because of obscenity, he added.

The pastor declared the complaints are made by persons who prefer jazz to religion, and that he had attracted a number of one that was signed with the name of "The Federalist," and over for investigation, because of obscenity, he added.

Sermons are broadcast from the church on Sunday morning, evening and Tuesday and Friday evenings.

Two Men Scolded During a Fight

John Wance, 50 years old, of St. George street, was taken to Hospital yesterday morning for scalds, lacerations of the scalp, a possible fracture of the skull, said he was assaulted Wednesday night in his home by John Poleski, 41, of 124 Sidney street, trawler, arrested, exhibited a sword arm. He said he knocked Wance down in self-defense, when Wance struck at him with a tablecloth, using an argument.

Wance, who was taken to the hospital, was in a critical condition. The plotters then drove to the home of Willie Wilson, a negro, who was to be a witness in the defense, and tortured him stretching him between a tree and an automobile axle. After they applied a hot shot battery, killing the old man. They threatened him he would be killed if he appeared at the trial. It was cided it would be best to take testimony by deposition, which was done.

The second-degree conviction of 15-year "life" sentence followed.

MAN, 67, SHOOT ESTRANGED BRIDE THEN KILLS SE

Edward Vermes Opens When She Refuses to Reconciled — Woman in Critical Condition.

Edward Vermes, 67 years old, day shot and critically wounded, 64-year-old estranged bride, who married three months ago, then turned his revolver upon self, inflicting a wound from which he died an hour later.

The shooting occurred at 8 p. m. in the kitchen of the home of Mrs. Rosalie Brangee at 2821 avenue, where Mrs. Vermes been stopping for two weeks, a hearing on her divorce.

Mrs. Brangee and Mrs. M. V. of 2546 Iowa avenue, a neighbor in the kitchen, when Vermes entered the house and went to the kitchen to confer with her. "He had come to the house several times in the past few days, effect a reconciliation," Brangee told reporters, "and I and I paid little attention to him and Mrs. Vermes today. We were Belgians and spoke in our own language which Mrs. Vermes understands."

Refused to Come Back.

Mrs. Wiget said Vermes' question was: "Are you coming back to me?" Mrs. Vermes replied, "No."

According to the two witnesses, Vermes then drew his revolver and fired several shots at Mrs. Vermes, as she screamed and placed the muzzle of the gun to his mouth and pulled the trigger.

Both were taken to city hospitals where he died without regaining consciousness.

Mrs. Vermes had been shot in the left side. She said her husband was at Perryville, Mo., where he has a son. She married Vermes last November, and told that he put her out of their home after two weeks. She returned to Perryville at that time, but after two weeks again returned to St. Louis, two weeks ago, to care for her divorce suit. Her husband resided at 3115 Michigan, which is also the home of his daughter, Mrs. R. Egan. He was formerly a hotelkeeper and had retired. A son, Edward, lives in Sandoval, N.M., and a daughter, Mrs. R. Selhorst, 1229 Michigan avenue.

POLICE COURT ATTORNEY REPRIMANDED BY JUDGE

Beck Dismisses Case Against After Satisfactory Song Continues.

Police Judge Beck today mandated Samuel Kohn, Court attorney, when he asked for a continuance in his case, the client's suit had first question asked him had he been not guilty.

Noa Denham of 261 Short Negro truck driver, was charged with owning a truck on which owner's name had not been every displayed. He told the judge he did not own the truck, but hired to drive it.

"Have you read this information?" Judge Beck asked him. "If so you should know that man can't be held on it. Simply want to get the $50. There is no cause for a law this case."

"If you're turning to Denham to get a lawyer in the turn to a law office, and take one simply because he is your patronage. The halls court building is a poor place to engage an attorney. If someone comes up to you and recommends a lawyer, and then the lawyer self immediately approaches you, not the one you want. I fine you boys pretty bad sometimes, but I'm also a protector you. On your answer the first question this case have to be dismissed."

Hawes Argues for Jury Pay

TOR URGED TO GET OFF THE A

Radio Fans Object to Broadcast by the Rev. E. C. Hartmann.

Broadcast by the Rev. E. C. Hartmann from the station of the St. Louis Center, 4030 Lindell boulevard, has prompted a number of letters to the station to "get off the air" (some instances, stating that the broadcast was to be made to prevent the church's broadcast from being heard).

Writing the letters with dispatch reporter today, the Rev. E. C. Hartmann said that the broadcast was made by persons who were not members of the church. He was signed with the Rev. E. C. Hartmann, because of the fact that he had attacked the church's broadcast.

MAN, 67, SHOTS ESTRANGED BRIDE, THEN KILLS SELF

Edward Vermes Opens Fire
When She Refuses to Be Reconciled — Woman in Critical Condition.

THEN SENDS BULLET
INTO OWN MOUTH

She Recently Had Brought Suit for Divorce and Taken Refuge in Traffic
Policeman's Home.

Edward Vermes, 67 years old, today shot and critically wounded his 64-year-old estranged bride, whom he married three months ago, and then turned his revolver upon himself, inflicting a wound from which he died an hour later.

The shooting occurred at 8:30 a. m. in the kitchen of the home of Mrs. Rosalie Brance at 2331 Iowa avenue, where Mrs. Vermes had been stopping for two weeks, awaiting a hearing on her divorce suit.

Mrs. Brance and Mrs. M. Wiget of 2346 Iowa avenue, a neighbor, were in the kitchen with Mrs. Vermes after breakfast when Vermes entered the house and went to the kitchen to confer with his wife.

"He had come to the house several times in the past few days to effect a reconciliation," Mrs. Brance told reporters. "And Mrs. Vermes and I paid little attention to him and Mrs. Vermes today. Both were Belgians and spoke in their own language which Mrs. Wiget understands."

Refused to Come Back.
Mrs. Wiget said Vermes' first question was: "Are you coming back to me?" Mrs. Vermes replied, "No."

According to the two witnesses, Vermes then drew his revolver, fired several shots at Mrs. Vermes and she screamed and fell, placed the muzzle of the weapon in his mouth and pulled the trigger.

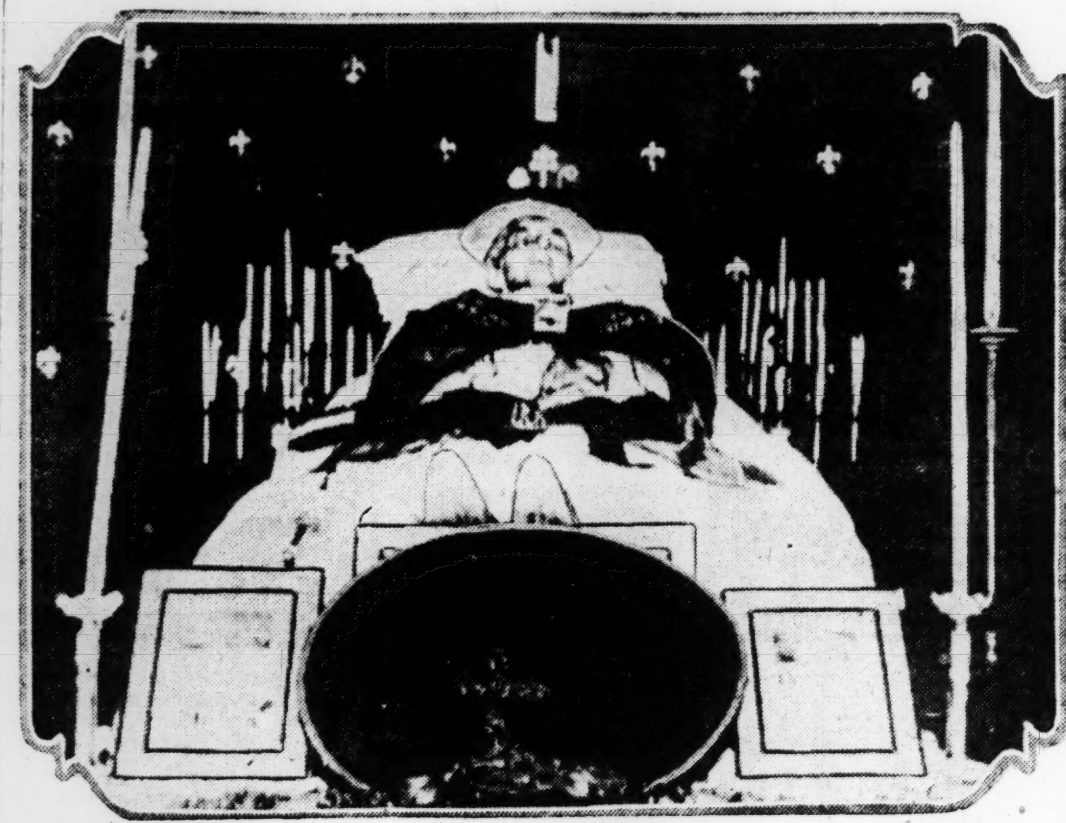

Both were taken to city hospital, where he died without regaining consciousness. Mrs. Vermes had been shot twice in the left side. She said her home was at Perryville, Mo., where she has a son. She married Vermes last November and told friends that he put her out of her home after two weeks. She returned to Perryville at that time, but came to St. Louis two weeks ago to prepare for her divorce suit hearing.

Vermes resided at 3115 Michigan avenue, which is also the home of his daughter, Mrs. R. Eggeman. He was formerly a hodecarrier, but had retired. A son, Edward Jr., lives in Sandover, Ill., and another daughter, Mrs. R. Schorff, lives at 2320 Michigan avenue.

ASSERTS PLASTERERS PLASTERED HIS FOOD

Gritty Barrage Drove Customers
Away, Says Restaurant
Man in Suit.

Plaster is all right in its place, but its place is on the ceiling, maintained Peter John, who formerly operated a restaurant at 2342 Lafayette avenue, in Justice of the Peace Moore's court yesterday. He insisted that plaster was distinctly out of place in clam chowder or consommé.

The Alhambra Bros. Realty Co., which John is suing for $500 damages, alleging he was forced to go out of business due to plastering in his restaurant, under the direction of the realty firm, declares that if any plaster fell into John's soup or scrambled eggs, it was not the company's fault, since it was having the work done under orders from the owner of the building.

However, the company is not prepared to admit that plastering John's ankles really were peppered with plaster, except hypothetically and merely for the sake of argument.

"I was doing a fine business," John testified. "I was making money. Then on Aug. 12 everything changed. About two weeks later I was out of business—all on account of that plaster. On that day I went out for a while and when I came back there was a man hammering the plaster off the ceiling. I told him to stop. He said he wouldn't because he had been hired to do it."

"Every time he took a whack at the wall or ceiling some plaster would fall. Just then, maybe, I'd be bringing an order of corned beef and cabbage, or something like that, and when I'd lay it down, it would have plaster with the beef and cabbage. My customers first complained, and they stopped coming."

"He had a good business," Mrs. John Rauch, 3223 Delmar boulevard, who was a waitress in John's restaurant, testified. "He made as high as $29 a day. But the customers wouldn't come and eat at our place after the plaster got into everything."

John Behm, 3017 Wisconsin avenue, the contractor who supervised the plastering, declared he was certain that not an atom of plaster ever polluted a single order. "We didn't make any dirt at all," he said. "Anyway most of our plastering was done in the store next door. All was plastered in John's place was a space of 22 inches under a window. That only took us three days, not a week like they say. And we were clean and careful all the time."

Exile for 40 Years May Now Come Home to Die

All Criminal Charges Against Maj. Edward
A. Burke, Confederate Veteran, Dropped
by State of Louisiana.

Specifically it was charged that as Louisiana State Treasurer, he took State bonds that had been returned to him for redemption and quietly resold them, selling them to banks and individuals at discount prices.

Major at First Defiant.
Close friends admitted irregularities but declared Major Burke never profited by them. In England, while the charges were filed, Burke cabled back a ringing defiance of his accusers and announced he would immediately return to vindicate his name. By he changed his path, and after a brief dash to Paris from London, went to Honduras, where any exile was safe.

Major Burke, born in Louisville, Ky., in 1841, enlisted in the Confederate army at 20, as a private, and came out of the conflict as major at 24. He reorganized the field transportation bureau for the Confederacy, his plan being adopted by President Davis at Richmond. At the end of the war he had the largest property account of any Confederate officer, and accounted for every penny. His wife, who was Susan E. Gaines, died a few years ago at Tegucigalpa. At his villa in Honduras Major Burke and his wife entertained many notable persons from Louisiana and other parts of America. Recently he expressed a desire to return to his home city for the end he felt was not far off, and his loyal friends here again set in motion the steps to have the charges formally dropped.

Friend of Jefferson Davis.
He was the close friend of Jefferson Davis, who had been president of the Confederacy; of Gen. P. G. T. Beauregard; of the officials of a half dozen Southern States. He was the owner of great gold-mining concessions in Honduras. His bounty was endless, his entertainments princely. His home in New Orleans, where he lived with his wife, of a distinguished Kentucky and Texas family, and his daughter, was a social center where Louisiana entertainers were held.

In 1890 there was a price of $10,000 upon his head. Indicted on a charge of diverting close to $200,000 of State funds to his personal use, he fled to Honduras.

TWO MEN SENTENCED FOR AUTO FATALITIES

One Given Six Months in Jail, Another Three Months in Workhouse.

Two drivers of automobiles, which in two instances ran down and killed a pedestrian, were in Circuit Judge Mix's court yesterday. One receiving a sentence of six months in jail by a jury and the other three months in the Workhouse on his plea of guilty.

Addie Green, 32 years old, a Negro, 817 North Twelfth street, was found guilty by the jury in a sealed verdict opened in court today. He was charged with manslaughter, growing out of the death of William Hilton, 63 years old, of 310 Clark avenue, who was struck by Green's car in front of No. 9 North Broadway, Aug. 23, last. Green testified the pedestrian stepped from behind a parked automobile in front of his car. Two other witnesses, however, disputed this saying the street was free from parked automobiles at the point, and that the car crossed the intersection of Market street at from 25 to 30 miles an hour.

The three months' workhouse sentence was imposed on Timothy D. Shelton of 5332 Powers avenue for killing Frank Connell, a city fireman, with his automobile, June 14, last. After various delays in the case, and efforts of his attorneys to obtain leniency for him, Shelton pleaded guilty to manslaughter. The penalty for manslaughter may be as high as 10 years in the penitentiary, at the State agreed to the lesser punishment in consideration of the plea of guilty.

SENATE CALLS FOR EVIDENCE IN THE ALUMINUM CASE

Directs Trade Commission to Furnish Data to Judiciary Committee That Had Been Withheld.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The Senate today directed the Federal Trade Commission to turn over to its Judiciary Committee evidence furnished to it by the Aluminum Co. of America and withheld from the Department of Justice.

Besides the evidence, the commission also was called upon to furnish all the evidence, documentary or otherwise, in its possession "affecting the question of whether there have been infractions by the Aluminum Co. of America of the decree entered against it in the year 1912 in the District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania."

The resolution was offered by Chairman Cummings of the Judiciary Committee, and was adopted without a record vote after Senator Reed (Rep.) of Pennsylvania had written to the Trade Commission releasing all of the evidence which that Federal agency had held to be "confidential" because it was furnished voluntarily by the company.

When this evidence is received, it will be made available to the Department of Justice, which now is conducting an investigation to determine whether the company has violated the decree.

This inquiry was put under way after the Federal Trade Commission had reported to the Senate and the Justice Department that there had been a violation.

DILLON AND HIS COMPANION
ENTER PLEA OF NOT GUILTY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—"Today," Dillon of St. Louis and John Fuller, of Hardman, of New York, they were arraigned on charges of first-degree robbery, for holding up a Greenwich Village restaurant the night of Jan. 22. The time for the trial will be fixed shortly.

No attempt was made by attorneys or relatives of the two young men to furnish bail for them, and both were sent back to the Tombs by Judge Knott. If they were released on bond they would be re-arrested at once on burglary charges made in warrants issued in Pike County, Pa.

NEW YORK CROWD STOPS TO STARE AT OLD-TIME SLEIGH

Children Along Fifth Avenue Hear Jangling Bells for First Time in Lives.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—"Whoa, Jerry!" boomed Thomas Conorton, cabby, last night, reining in hard on the sporting near horse in front of the Hotel Plaza. And all the hurrying people on the sidewalks, leaning hard against the wind and spiraling snow, stared suddenly at Conorton and his strange turn-out as if old Diederich Knickerbocker himself had stepped out of a winter's grave.

For Thomas Conorton was driving a two-seater sleigh!
The equipage was grand to behold. The pair of spanking chestnuts had on a full regalia of sleigh bells that tinkled all in tune a gay, wild song of winter and a song that has grown dim in the motorized car of New York. Some boys and girls along Fifth Avenue heard sleighbells for the first time in their lives.

The major domo at the Plaza was ecstatic.
"There's only four of 'em in New York," he exclaimed.
The bells made a sensation around the Plaza. Taxicabs actually stopped and gave the sleigh the right-of-way. Urchins shouted gleefully and ran along beside. They did not know the trick that every country lad knows of hopping on the runner.

CHARITY PATIENT LEFT $10,000

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—For three and a half months, Mrs. Annie Lendrock, who died of cancer last December, was a ward of the city—a charity patient of the Social Service Branch of the New York City Cancer Institute. Previously, she had sold her furniture, piece by piece, to pay the cost of a losing fight against the disease. However, it has been disclosed she had left a secret savings account of $10,000 and left giving one-third of the money to the Social Branch in appreciation of what it had done for her.

TACNA-ARICA LAW APPEALED

MAN EXECUTED UNDER NAME OF BENEFACITOR

Civil War Veterans' Plea to Change Cognomen of Matthew Wesser Fails.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—A white man and a Negro paid the extreme penalty for murder in Sing Sing last night.

The white man, who went under the name of Matthew Wesser of Buffalo, sat in the electric chair first at 11:07 o'clock.

"I feel that this is an injustice," Wesser said, "because I am only one out of the seven implicated, and the one who fired the shot escaped my fate." He was pronounced dead at 11:12.

The Negro, Ernest Mimms, entered the death chamber two minutes later and was pronounced dead at 11:30 o'clock.

In the case of Wesser, two veterans of the Civil War had tried vainly to clear the name of a comrade of the 60's from the stain of murder.

In Buffalo, after Supreme Court Justice Hinkley had denied the motion of Wesser's attorney for a new trial, one of the veterans appeared before the Justice.

"Judge," he said, "I am John Maxwell and I fought in the Civil War with Matthew Wesser. Twenty years after the war, when Louis Peter Otto was hanged for murdering his wife, my old comrade Wesser adopted Otto's two boys. One of them he named after himself. Fifteen years ago Wesser died."

"The boy he adopted, and to whom he gave every chance, is this man, Matthew Wesser, who is going to be executed for murder. Can't you make this man carry his own name, which is Otto, with him to his shameful death? The name Otto can stand it; it has been there before."

"I'm sorry I can't do anything about it," said Justice Hinkley. To his support the old soldier brought August M. Simon, who fought in the Civil War with him and Wesser, but to no purpose.

An effort of Wesser's lawyer to have Gov. Smith interfere on the ground the facts did not show conclusively that the prisoner was the man who murdered Howard Huff, paymaster, in a robbery at Niagara Falls, Dec. 11, 1924, failed.

HODCARRIER WANTS $118 FOR DOING DUTY

Negro Suing Union Admits He Did No Work, but Insists Money Is Due Him.

To Ezekial Blanchard, well-known figure in Negro labor circles, duty comes first, last, and all the time. And he hopes Justice of the Peace Moore will understand the peculiar character of duty—that it makes no difference whether a man performs a duty, for a duty's a duty and merely possessing one should qualify its owner for compensation.

Blanchard is suing Local Union No. 53 of the International Hod Carriers' Building and Common Laborers' Union of America, of which he formerly was an officer, for $118 for services performed, with a few "duties" thrown in. For instance, he wants $14 from the union for testifying against it in a recent suit. He told Justice Moore yesterday he did his duty as he saw it and should be paid for it. And then he asks $4 for three days' work he smilingly admits he never did; but then it was his duty to do it, and duty should pay something more concrete than its own reward, he maintains.

"What work did you perform for this $4 you are charging the union?" he was asked.

"Didn't do no work," replied the plaintiff. "It was for duty. One of our men got arrested and the union's auto was held by the police. A committee of four was appointed to regain the auto. Each man worked three days. The pay is $7 a day. Four times $21 is $84. That's what you owe me."

"But you never did the work," Justice Moore observed it was his duty to hurry proceedings along, suggesting that Blanchard eliminate in his testimony as many of his duties as possible.

"Do you expect the union to pay you this $14 for testifying against them?"

"I felt it was my duty to testify like I did. I was in court two whole days. I did my duty and I want my money."

"And this $7 for appearing in police court?"

"I was trustee of the union's property."

"Did it have any property in court?"

"Well, not exactly. I was just doing my duty."

Justice Moore, in accordance with his duty, took the case under advisement.

BRITISH BIRTH RATE LOWER THAN FRENCH LAST YEAR

Decline Attributed to Taxation, Heavy Cost of Education and Late Marriages.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News, Copyright 1926.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Taxation, insufficient nutrition and birth control are held jointly responsible for the astounding fall in the birth rate for England, Scotland and Wales, which is revealed in figures issued by the Registrar-General.

During the last year the birth rate dropped to 15.3 per thousand of population as compared with 18.7 in France. While the number of births decreased, the number of marriages remains practically the same as before the war, indicating that the number of children per marriage has declined by one-fourth.

The Rev. James Marchant, secretary of the National Birth Rate Commission, declared today that the falling birth rate had a terrible adverse effect upon the commerce and literature of the nation, owing to the fact that the decrease was occurring among skilled workmen and professional elements and in the educated and wealthier sections of the community.

This, he feels, is due to the crushing burden of taxation, the heavy cost of education and late marriages. It means, he declares, a preponderance of births among the feeble-minded, the criminal and the unemployable, with the consequent lowering of the whole national life.

Mine Disaster Laid to Negligence.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Feb. 5.—Insufficient ventilation caused the explosion in the Degnan-McConnell mine No. 21, near Wilbur-ton, Jan. 13, in which 93 men perished, says the official report of Ed Boyle, Chief Mine Inspector for the State.

Boyle declared the State law applying to cross cuts which carry ventilation to working places was not complied with and the dust was not sprinkled or removed.

Misses' and Juniors' Departments Introduce Authentic Apparel Styles for Spring

Misses' Coats

Show Large Patterns

$25 to $45

The modern spirit for vivid tones and defined patterns is the theme of the weaves shown for young women. Brilliant plaids, large checks and novelties are made with detachable capes, sleeve capes, ties and other details that establish their fashion rightness for Spring.

Tailoring Is Excellent

Every detail in design and finish contributes to the tailored smartness—pockets cleverly placed, necklines that are novel, belts placed low and linings of vivid silk crepe.

Misses' Frocks

Favor Sheer Fabrics

$35 to $75

Veiled prints—Georgette over crepe de chine—are one of the late developments in the mode. One sees it in dresses on coat lines and in designs more elaborate. Crepe Romaine with taffeta in pretty bandings is another of the new modes. Many are designed on molded lines.

Sheerness Is Essential

For afternoon the effect of sheerness is necessary for smartness. Lace is employed to gain this delicacy in design, together with Georgette and crepe Elizabeth.

Misses' Trig Tweed Suits

Are Tailored With Smart Restraint

$25 to $85

The two-piece suit is tailored of wool novelties including diagonals and plain weaves—the coat exceedingly simple is wrist length, the skirt wraps around. A three-piece model of checked tweed boasts a coat finger-tip length, a wrap-around skirt, and a jumper of crepe de chine. Sizes 14 to 18. (The Misses' Store—Third Floor.)

The Junior Suit Is Severely Simple, $25

For the little girl 12 to 17, the box coat suit is sponsored. Tailored on extremely simple lines, it is made of pretty tweeds. Complete, it achieves a boyish swagger.

Junior Girls' Spring Coats of Tweed, $25 and $35

The girl 13 to 17 wears vivid tones. Built on long, loose lines that assume a boyish swagger, the Coats are extremely simple in tailoring. She may choose a check, a plaid, or a novelty mixture.

Same Coats in sizes 6 to 10, $19.75.

Junior Girls' Frocks in Pastel Jersey, $10

The schoolgirl's Spring wardrobe should contain several of these one-piece Frocks. They are offered in pastel tints, though a few are shown in darker shades, and are hand smocked at fitted shoulder.

Sizes 6 to 10 and 13 to 17 years.

(Jaunty Junior Dept.—Third Floor.)

Women's New Topcoats

Tailored Spring Models of Lonsdale Tweed

$39.75

The modish lines of the Coats, the excellent workmanship with which they are fashioned, and the quality of the materials make them an advance Spring fashion more than usually attractive. There are three styles:

With French Shoulder
With Set-In Sleeve
With Raglan Sleeve

Novelty pockets, smartly placed, and cleverly designed collars are distinguishing details. Coats are fully lined in crepe de chine, hand belted.

(Women's Coat Dept.—Third Floor.)

Chicago Evening Post Recites
This City's Growth and Bright Future.

to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Impressed by the growing importance of the Chicago Evening Post which published the following students of business trends.

Central West are impressed by the growing importance of St. Louis.

After a long period, in the progress of that old and established city was overlooked by the greater advances

its rivals, either because they dred greater transportation advances or because they first developed new industries, as automobiles in Detroit or rubber in Ak-

St. Louis seems to be gain-ground and many recent developments give assurance of continued growth.

The Frisco-Rock Island merger interpreted here as symptomatic of the greater importance of St. Louis prestige. The

co. dominant in the new system has always sustained close relations with St. Louis and developed a of the territory tributary to city.

Considered a Steel Center.
The solution of the problem of the Illinois coal for metallurgical uses is a capital event. Illi-

choice coal fields are nearer St. Louis than any other city. It is regarded as inevitable that St.
Louis will become a substantial factory in the steel industry.

Opening of the lakes-to-the-gulf route would greatly enhance importance of St. Louis and its surrounding districts in steel. No city is making a more strenuous bid for foreign trade.

Conceded and intensive educational efforts among St. Louis business men export trade is being carried on.
Although 1200 miles inland, St.

St. Louis refuses to consider itself isolated and has, indeed, found the existing barge line to New York has been of great benefit exporters. Ever since this began making regular runs, St.

Louis exports have grown rapidly,
only in such markets as Cuba

Mexico, which buy more than $800 worth of St. Louis manufactures monthly, but the city's is also growing with the more at markets of the Far East and Europe.

"Territory Undeveloped."
Such of the territory in easy reach of St. Louis business, is even relatively undeveloped. Those are familiar with Arkansas not for that section, an increase in wealth and population which is taking place in Virginia.

It is significant of changed conditions in this part of the country
St. Louis' advances and bright prospects excite not a trace of that intercity jealousy that contributed to the picturesque of business life and still lives in California and the West.

While other cities take the St.
Louis news as a hint to spur their efforts toward greater prosperity, the belief that St. Louis is in an era of great development

is the general feeling elsewhere
in the progress of any city in the region is good for the whole Mississippi Valley. Undoubtedly

is a growing solidarity among people and business men of the Mississippi Valley respecting the common economic conditions on the lakes

in discussion on matters of commerce and the electrical developments in the St. Lawrence Valley dependent upon the use of power of the lake's drainage basin.

Chicago Evening Post Recites
Bright Future.

St. Louis, Feb. 5.—Impressed by the growing importance of the Chicago Evening Post, the following: Students of business trends in Central West are impressed by the growing importance of St. Louis. After a long period, in the progress of that old and established city was over-looked by the greater advances of rivals, either because they shared greater transportation advantages or because they first developed new industries, as automobiles in Detroit or rubber in Akron. St. Louis seems to be gaining ground and many recent developments give assurance of continuing growth.

The Frisco-Rock Island merger interpreted here as symptomatic of the greater St. Louis prestige. The new, dominant in the new system, has always sustained close relations with St. Louis and developed the territory tributary to it. Considered a Steel Center. The solution of the problem of the Illinois coal for metallurgical uses is a capital event. Illinois' choicest coal fields are nearer St. Louis than any other city. It is regarded as inevitable that St. Louis will become a substantial factor in the steel industry. Opening of the lake-to-the-gulf way would greatly enhance the importance of St. Louis and its surrounding districts in steel. No city is making a more strenuous effort for foreign trade. Considered intensive educational effort among St. Louis business men. Sport trade is being carried on. Although 1200 miles inland, St. Louis refuses to consider itself isolated and has, indeed, found the existing barge line to New Orleans has been of great benefit to exporters. Ever since this began making regular runs, St. Louis has grown rapidly. Only in such markets as Cuba, Mexico, which buy more than $5000 worth of St. Louis manufactures monthly, but the city's exports also growing with the more distant markets of the Far East, India and Europe.

"Territory Undeveloped." Much of the territory in easy reach of St. Louis business is even relatively undeveloped. Those are familiar with Arkansas and for that section an increase in wealth and population which is taking place in Virginia.

It is significant of changed conditions in this part of the country that St. Louis business and bright prospects excite not a trace of that mutual jealousy that contributed to the picturesque of business life and still lingers in California and the West.

While other cities take the St. Louis news as a hint to spur their efforts toward greater progress, the belief that St. Louis is in an era of great development and the general feeling elsewhere of the progress of any city in the region is good for the whole Mississippi Valley. Undoubtedly a growing solidarity among people and business men of the Mississippi Valley respecting common economic conditions of the cities on the lake is a discussion on matters of importance and the electrical developments in the St. Lawrence Valley dependent upon the use of the lake's drainage basin, cities of the Mississippi Valley are closer together."

STREET DIRECTOR ASSAILS RESEARCH BODY AND WOMEN

Brooks Declares Inquiries on Cleaning Costs Were Based on Figures of Fault-Finders.

Robert B. Brooks, Director of Streets and Sewers, replying today to a letter written to him by the League of Women Voters, as to costs of street cleaning, censured both the league and the Bureau of Municipal Research, which compiled the figures on which the women's organization based its inquiries.

"In my opinion," Director Brooks wrote, addressing the League of Women Voters, "your letter was not written with a sincere desire to assist the city administration but for some other motive. You doubtless realize that those employed by the Bureau of Municipal Research, in order to retain their positions, must continually find fault, and it may be that the employees of the Bureau of Municipal Research are using the League of Women Voters as an agency to keep them in useless positions."

"Do you know that the Bureau of Municipal Research is shortly to undertake a scheme of refinancing, and the only way that the bureau can be refinanced is to find fault with whatever administration is in power? Evidently you did not take this into consideration, or you would have taken the matter up with me originally instead of publishing it in the papers several days before your letter was delivered to this office."

The Mayor's Attitude.
Director Brooks is one of the chief appointees of Mayor Miller, who last December wrote to the Bureau of Municipal Research, asking for suggestions to improve the administration of the city government. This was noted, at the time, as a change from the attitude of Miller's predecessor, Mayor Kiel, who used to ignore the bureau's criticisms.

It is understood at city hall, however, that the Mayor is in sympathy with Brooks in the attitude expressed by the director, in his letter, toward the bureau.

In the letter to Director Brooks, written Jan. 14, the League of Women Voters quoted from the bureau's report of October, 1924, stating that the flushing of pavements cost 53 cents a thousand square yards in St. Louis and only 9 cents in Chicago, where motorized apparatus is used. It asked whether changes had been made since 1924, and whether the Director was planning to motorize the equipment.

Says Figures Were Incorrect.
Director Brooks, in his reply, says that, at the time the women's letter reached his office, he was on a visit to Chicago and other cities, looking into street-cleaning costs. He found, he said, that the figures cited were incorrect. He was told that the 9 cents a thousand square yards in Chicago represented merely the cost of shooting the water on the pavement, and not of gathering and removing the refuse. The cost in St. Louis was not 53 cents, but 39.09 cents, he said, and this included payment for the flushing equipment, 21 combination flushing and sprinkling machines, with spare parts, 80 mules, and harness. The payments were so spread over a three-year term that at the end of the three years the city acquired the equipment by the formal payment of $1.

Johnson Bros. Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores, Walgreen Drug Co. Declare Money Back If One Bottle Doesn't Make Any Stomach Sufferer Happy.

Why bother with slow actors when one tablespoonful of Dore's Mentha Peppin, a splendid and pleasant elixir, will cause gas, bloating, heaviness, heartburn or any upset condition of the stomach to speedily vanish.

And why should any man or woman suffer another hour with indigestion or any stomach misery when the remedy that acts almost instantly can be easily procured?

Dore's Mentha Peppin not only quickly relieves stomach distress, but it also cures stubborn indigestion, dyspepsia and acidities, and puts an end to distention, nervousness, headache, sleeplessness and discomfort which distressing troubles are nearly always caused by chronic stomach disturbance.

MAN CLAIMING TO BE SON AT ABE HUMMEL'S FUNERAL

He Also Seeks the $1,000,000 Fortune Left by Criminal Lawyer.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Henry D. Hummel, bakery cart driver, has come from Portland, Me., for the second time in 20 years because of misfortune to the man he claims as father.

He was here this time to attend the funeral today of Abe Hummel, once famous divorce and criminal lawyer, who died recently in London, and to claim the Hummel fortune, estimated at more than $1,000,000.

In 1907, as a youngster, he ran away from his grandmother's home, he says, because he heard his father was in trouble.

"What are you doing here, boy?" he says Abe Hummel asked him then. "Go back to your grandmother."

The boy went back and next day Abe Hummel went to Blackwell's Island to begin a two-year term for subornation of perjury.

Young Hummel saw the dead lawyer's body yesterday, but neither he nor his lawyer was allowed to see the will, the Guaranty Trust Co., as executors, putting that off until after the funeral.

State Senator Frederick W. Hinckley of Portland has been gathering evidence to show that young Hummel is the son of Abe Hummel and Leila Farrell, singer.

Hummel was buried in Salem Fields Cemetery. Of the many whom Hummel once called friends, only 14 followed the hearse to the cemetery, including the Portland claimant.

 Desired

Each furniture offering that is extraordinary—an opportunity to secure a beautiful Suite of walnut dining-room furniture at very much less than its worth. Exteriors of all pieces are of walnut, the interiors of mahogany, all edges are cross-band veneered and the blending of woods is unusually attractive. High-grade workmanship and effective designing are features which contribute to the excellence of these Suites. The quantity is limited to 20 Suites, so therefore early selection is advised.

Each Suite consists of a 72-inch buffet, oblong dining table that may be extended to 8 feet, china cabinet with drawer, serving cabinet of attractive design, one arm chair and five other chairs.

TAXI SHADES LOCKED TO STOP PETTING PARTIES IN HOME

Police Act in Nationwide Campaign Against Growing Influence of "The Jazz Age."

ROME, Feb. 5.—Taxicab petting parties have been banished here by the latest edict in a nationwide campaign against the growing influence of the jazz age.

All taxicabs equipped with shades which may be drawn across the windows have had these shades fastened by tiny locks. Each of the locks bears the local seal of the Rome Prefect, so that a chauffeur who permits a client to break it to shut himself off from public view can easily be caught. A fine is the penalty.

For several weeks the authorities of all the cities of the Kingdom have been raiding and closing dance halls of every description.

Another campaign is being waged against alleged immoral books. Half a dozen important trials against publishers are going on in Florence, Milan and Bologna. Only modern and "non-classical" books, however, are affected. Boccaccio, Casanova, Cellini, Aretino and other classics rest firmly installed in public favor and no one has even thought of banning them.

BOND SALESMAN CHARGED WITH MAILING OBSCENE LETTER

George Sherwood, 36, arrested on the complaint of stenographer. George Sherwood, 36 years old, 6428 Cates avenue, a bond salesman, with an office in the Missouri Theater Building, was arrested yesterday at his office on a Federal charge of sending obscene matter through the mails to a woman stenographer in an office in the same building. He was released on a $1000 bond, pending a hearing Feb. 23.

The woman previously had complained to Assistant City Councilor Evers that Sherwood had been annoying her. Evers wrote Sherwood advising him to cease his alleged attentions, and Sherwood said he wrote a notation on the bottom of Evers' letter and sent it to the woman. He added that he could not account for her complaint to the Federal authorities as she later sent him a friendly birthday card.

ATTORNEY SUES FOR DIVORCE

William S. Bedal Charges Wife Diverted Children's Affections. Alleging that his wife dominated their minds and "injected into their minds a dislike and distaste for their father," William Sherwood Bedal, attorney in the Liberty Central Bank Bldg., has sued Mrs. Susan B. Bedal for divorce, charging general indignities. He asks for custody of the children, William Sherwood Jr., 15 years old, and Susan F. 14. The suit is pending in Judge Pearcey's court.

Mrs. Bedal has filed a motion for temporary alimony and attorney's fees, with a general denial of charges. She states her husband has an income of from $7500 to $10,000 a year from his law practice, and demands a minimum of $200 a month for support until the case is tried. They were married in 1909 and separated Oct. 9, 1924.

WHY MME. MELIUS IS BANKRUPT

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—The reason for the voluntary bankruptcy petition filed some time ago by Mrs. Luella Melius, opera singer, was disclosed when the case came up for hearing before Referee Frank L. Wean. The singer, who really is Mrs. William F. Melhuish, was married at 17 to Elmer L. Ohrman, a real estate operator, whom she afterward divorced, and one of his creditors attached her salary on a $17,000 debt of her former husband.

An almost forgotten law in Illinois makes a wife responsible for the debts of an erring or unwise husband. Confronted with the realization that Ohrman had debts aggregating $56,432, the singer filed bankruptcy proceedings in an effort to clear herself.

PHYSICIAN SUED FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Amy Jones yesterday filed suit to divorce Dr. Harry M. Jones, 7401 Clayton avenue, alleging general indignities. She charges that he had an ungovernable temper and constantly found fault.

The petition states that, although

Backache making you miserable?

YOU can't be happy when every day brings morning lameness, torturing backache and sharp, stabbing pains. Why not find the cause and correct it? Often it's weak kidneys. only Columbia New Process Records have this silent surface. No others. Smooth to the eye as polished plate glass, the needle seems to touch nothing—but only to transmit the waves of sound that the music has engraved. Here is an absolutely new and grateful experience for every owner of a phonograph—an unbelievable perfection of surface added to unexpected definition of tone and to startling volume: an incomparably true translation of the recorded original. Will you verify these bold statements by hearing one notable new process Columbia Record that is an excellent example? You know the piano—and you have heard your own phonograph try to reproduce piano music; hear this record at any Columbia dealer's:

Song of the Vagabonds, from "The Vagabond King" Piano Solo by the Composer, RUDOLF FRIML (On the reverse side, Chansonette—Piano Solo by the Composer, Rudolf Friml) (No. 533-D. 10 in. 75c.)

"The Vagabond King" is one of the most popular musical successes of the season. Rudolf Friml is the composer of "The Vagabond King," "Rose Marie" and "Katinka." In this new process Columbia Record, not only is the music his own composition but he plays it himself. It is great music, played by a great pianist.

Or take any of these others. Listen to them critically. Try to find faults in them. Believe nothing but your own ears:

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5.—
Small pieces of candy out of a box
from London to Bebe Daniels, picture actress, in Los Angeles, have been examined by Government chemists here on the theory that the bonbons may have been poisoned, but they were found free of any poison.

Why A Woman's Age
Shows In Her Hands

A hand beauty specialist recently said that she could invariably judge a woman's age by her hands. Worry and hard work show in the hands when it does not show in the face, and as a rule women give more attention to their face than to their hands. The hands, however, should not be neglected, because pretty, soft,
white hands are really the true marks of refinement, and they should be cared for.
Any woman can have beautiful, white,
soft, pretty hands, regardless of the work
she has to do, if she will simply spend a minute or two just before retiring, rubbing a little plain Jo-Mat on them. In the morning she will be greatly surprised to find her hands as soft and white as when she first began. Jo-Mat is a single application that has been wrought by even a single application.
Jo-Mat is made from a Japanese product that is simply marvelous for its beauty-giving properties, whether used on the hands or face. Regardless of what kind of work
a woman does, she should have pretty hands, as the hands, if neglected, are bound to show the hard work and worry of her life. A few applications of Jo-Mat will actually make any woman proud of her hands and skin. It costs little and is sold and recommended by good druggists everywhere.

FORMER DRY DIRECTOR ESCAPES U. S. PROSECUTION
Court Dismisses Indictments Against Four Pennsylvania Men.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5.—The Government has failed in its efforts to prosecute on charges of conspiracy and misconduct in office
William C. McConnell, former Federal prohibition director. Federal District Judge Thompson yesterday
quashed indictments against Mc-Connell and also those against Albert R. Slater, his former secretary, and Hiram W. Benner, chief of the permit department under McConnell.

It was the second unsuccessful effort the Government has made to convict McConnell for what was alleged to have been a gigantic conspiracy to aid bootleggers in the early days of prohibition to obtain whisky illegally.

The indictments quashed were the aftermath of a trial held in April, 1923, in which McConnell and 44 others were acquitted.

Judge Thompson in addition to ruling that the national prohibition act was not a revenue act and therefore McConnell was not a revenue official, held that the present indictments were identical to those on which he ordered the acquittal
of the group in 1923 and consequently the three defendants cannot be tried over again for the same offense.

APPROPRIATIONS OF $571,500
APPROVED BY ESTIMATE BOARD

Largest Item $290,000 for Construction of Rock Creek Joint Levee in Carondelet District.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment today approved proposed ordinances appropriating a total of $571,500, including $290,- 000 for the construction of Rock Creek joint sewer in the Carondelet
Park district; $50,500 for grading
and reconstruction of Loughborough avenue from Field avenue to Gravois avenue; $20,000 for repairs
on the Quincy street sewer; $12,000
for the reconstruction of the third section of the North Baden public sewer, and $200,000 for water pipe, valves and other equipment for the new municipal waterworks on the Missouri River.

A public hearing on the municipal budget for the fiscal year 1926-27 will be held at 11 a. m. Friday in the Mayor's office at City Hall.
The City Charter requires that such a hearing be held so the public can voice its views on proposed expenditures.

Fined $25 for Being Drunk.
"I follow construction work,
your honor," said William Anagosi
in pleading guilty of being drunk
on the street, in Police Judge Rosecan's court yesterday. "Do you think you'll ever catch up with it?"
Twenty-five dollars and costs," ruled the court.

HUNT MOONSHINERS IN ITALY
Police of Naples Seize a Few Still in Appennine Forest.

By the Associated Press.
NAPLES, Feb. 5.—This part of Italy has its moonshiner problem.

Police are hunting in the forests of the Appennines, where moonshiners have cropped up for much the same reason they appeared in the Kentucky and Tennessee mountains, a desire to dodge liquor taxes. A few still have been seized and some arrests made, but the police think there are still many centers for the manufacture of untaxed spirits.

visited Italy in 1924, according to Italy's official tourist bureau. That year's total number of visitors—$35,000—was probably increased to more than 1,000,000 in 1925, according to the Rome Piccolo. Of the 1924 visitors the largest portion—136,000—were Germans. April, but August—Italy's hottest while 122,000 were English and month—comes second.

75,000 French. All of them together left $120,000,000 in Italy—

LONDON TO BROADCAST HONORS TO SEA HEROES

British Awards and Message From King Will Be Delivered Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Feb. 5.—All England will have an opportunity of hearing the speeches when the awards for gallantry are made tomorrow to the officers and men of the liner President Roosevelt, who participated in the rescue of the crew of the British freighter Antiope. The British Broadcasting Co. has arranged to broadcast the proceedings from the high power station at Daventry as well as from London.

A special train will carry the Government representatives and newspaper men from Waterloo Station to Southampton in time to reach the dock when the President Roosevelt arrives from Bremen. Capt. Fried will receive the president of the Board of Trade and his party at the gangway and introduce those concerned in the rescue, after which luncheon will be served.

King Sends Personal Message.
During the luncheon the president of the Board of Trade, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, will deliver a special message of congratulation from the King.

After luncheon the lifeboat crew will take up a station in the dining room facing the captain's table and Philip Runciman, widely known British shipping man, will introduce Sir Philip. Capt. Fried and Chief Officer Miller will reply to Sir Philip and Boylston Beal, representing the American Ambassador, also will speak.

Capt. Tose of the Antiope plans to make a personal gift of an inscribed gold cigarette case to Capt. Fried and silver cases to Chief Officer Miller, Third Officer Sloane and Fourth Officer Upton "in affectionate remembrance of their fine service."

Another Ceremony at New York.
The American and British national anthems will be played and the President Roosevelt will sail about 2 p. m.

When the liner arrives in New York there will be another ceremony at which the Lloyd's Agency awards to Capt. Fried, Officers Miller, Sloane and Upton and the 29 men who brought off the Antiope's crew will be presented. It was at first intended to make these presentations when the ship touched at a British port on her next voyage, but New York was thought to be a more appropriate place for the second ceremony, and the medals will be taken aboard, to be presented when the liner docks in New York.

NEGRO, WHOSE JAW WAS BROKEN IN BRAWL, DIES

Coroner to Hold Inquest in Case of Man Who Died From Abscess Caused by Injury.
An inquest will be held in the case of Clifton Hammond, 23 years old, of 2124 Clark avenue, a Negro, who died at City Hospital No. 2 Wednesday night from an abscess due to a fractured jaw suffered, police were told, when he was knocked down New Year's eve in a restaurant at Twenty-second street and Clark avenue. John McBride, 26, of 522 Wash street, a Negro, who is said to have struck Hammond, is under arrest.

A waitress in the restaurant, Sadie Kincaid, a Negro, told police-men Hammond called her "sugar" and "baby" when he visited the restaurant Dec. 31 to which, she said, McBride objected. Hammond drew a knife at first, but later put it away and was struck on the jaw by McBride, she said.

Hammond applied for treatment at the hospital Jan. 3, was later discharged, returned on Jan. 20 and was discharged a second time and reappeared Feb. 2 and died the next day.

ITALIAN ABANDONS FLIGHT

Plane, Damaged in Morocco, Unfit to Go on to Argentina.
By the Associated Press.
CASA BLANCA, Morocco, Feb. 5.—Count Casa Grande, Italian aviator, has been forced to abandon his flight to Argentina. An engineer sent from Italy has found the Count's plane too badly damaged to proceed without extensive repairs, which it would be impossible to effect here. The plane will be dismantled and sent to Italy.

Count Casa Grande started his flight from Genoa Nov. 4, and arrived at Barcelona, Spain, the next day. Thence he flew to Santiago, Gibraltar and Casa Blanca, arriving at the last named place on Nov. 19. Delayed by bad weather he finally hopped off on Nov. 24 for the flight to the Canaries, but was forced back by storms. A series of violent gales followed and on Dec. 24 his plane was blown from its moorings and wrecked.

NUN, DAUGHTER OF ST. LOUISAN WRITES EUCHARISTIC HYMN

Verses by Sister Mary of the Angels Selected From More Than 3000 Entries.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Music for the official hymn to be sung by more than 1,000,000 pilgrims who attend the XXVIII International Eucharistic Congress at Chicago, June 20-24, is being sought by officials of the Congress, who have announced the verses which are to be set to music. The contest for music will close March 5. Sister Mary of the Angels, instructor in English at St. Francis Xavier College, Chicago, is the author of the verses selected from more than 3000 entries. "The Nation's Consecration" is the title of the hymn, and it will be a frequent feature of the Congress, particularly when the Congressists sing it in the huge Eucharistic procession on the last day of the Congress. The parents of Sister Mary are Dr. and Mrs. John H. Simon of St. Louis.

The hymn selected as second best came from Stella Niagara, N. Y., and was signed "M. C. O. S. F." Third in merit was that of Sister St. Edwin of St. Joseph's Seminary, Kankakee, Ill.

The Nation's Consecration.
O Christians, raise your hearts,
Oh, magnify your birth;
God of one blood has made
All those who dwell on earth.
All praise unto our Eucharistic King!

Lord God of hosts, behold,
What Christ's blest prayer has done:
"My Father, may they be
As we are, Father, one."
All praise unto our Eucharistic King!

All praise unto our Eucharistic King!

Our lives we consecrate
Each nation, race by race,
Oh, may we meet again
To sing before Thy face:
All praise unto our Eucharistic King!

BELGIAN DEPUTIES URGED TO ACCEPT U. S. DEBT SETTLEMENT

BRUSSELS, Feb. 5.—The vote on the American-Belgian debt settlement by the Chamber of Deputies will be taken next Wednesday, and yesterday the Chamber devoted several hours in discussing the subject. The American Ambassador, William Phillips, sat in the diplomatic gallery.

The Foreign Minister, M. Vandervelde, urged speedy ratification, saying: "We have settled our account, and good accounts make good friends."

The Minister asserted that the conditions obtained at Washington were the best that could have been hoped for, but contended that, nevertheless, the solution of the debt problem might have been different if the armaments race had not begun again in Europe. He maintained his previous statement that the annulment of war debts would have been an act of justice and wisdom, but begged the deputies not to confound American war profiteers with the United States Government, to whose fiscal efforts he paid homage. He explained that the Belgian Government could not adjourn the negotiations, as the needs of the Treasury were urgent.

M. Franck, former Minister of the Colonies, regretted that Italy had obtained better conditions than Belgium. If they had been treated equally, Belgium would be paying $8,000,000 Belgian francs yearly.

He announced that he would abstain from voting for the records. Former Premier Jaspar, refusing M. Franck, declared the Belgian

Tells Weak, Frail, Skinny Folks How to Gain Five Pounds in Thirty Days

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets will increase your weight 5 pounds in 30 days or your druggist is authorized to return your money.

No more will weak, thin, unfortunate children cry in protest when the nasty, fishy-tasting, horrible-smelling cod liver oil is brought out. Medical science progresses rapidly, and now you can get at your druggist's real, genuine cod liver oil in sugar-coated tablets that young and old can take with ease and pleasure.

Even the run-down and skinny grown-ups, who ought to take cod liver oil, because it really is the greatest vitamin food and builder of healthy flesh in the world, will feel extremely joyful when they read this welcome news.

Thin, run-down, anemic men, women and children who need to grow strong and take on flesh are advised to get a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, and if you don't gain 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist is authorized to hand you back the money you paid for it.

One woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks, according to her own doctor—another 10 pounds in three weeks. A very sickly child, aged nine, gained 12 pounds in seven months, and now plays with other children and has a good appetite.

Just ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. Well-known Drug Stores, Underberg Drug Co., or any druggist will tell you that they are wonderful food and health builders. Only 60 cents for 60 tablets—and don't forget that they are wonder workers for feeble old folks. Get McCoy's, the original and genuine, and beware of imitations. Millions of have said so.

DETECTIVES WHO SHOT BOY ARE EXONERATED

Grand Jury, After Inquiry of Wounding of Julian Niemeyer, Return "No True" Bill.

A report of "no true bill" was returned by the grand jury yesterday, after an investigation of the shooting of Julian Niemeyer, 12-year-old Boy Scout, by City Detectives Arthur L. Abbott and Charles E. Frank, Dec. 1.

Informing of the grand jury's action, which is tantamount to an exoneration of the officers, Julius
C. Niemeyer, 3946 Humphrey street, father of the boy, said he did not believe justice had been served. Niemeyer had requested the grand jury investigation, and was incensed at the fact that his son, after being shot down by mistake, was shackled to a cot at City Hospital as a police prisoner,
"suspected of burglary." The boy was released from the shackles and the charge against him dropped when his parents protested.

On the night of Dec. 1, Julian Niemeyer and five other Boy Scouts on their way home from a meeting at the Oak Hill Presbyterian Church, stopped to play at the mouth of an alley on Russell place, between Utah place and Humphrey street. Detectives Abbott and Frank, riding through the alley in an automobile, and looking for burglars, saw the boys daring in and out of a yard, and mistook them for burglars.

The detectives say they called out for the boys to halt and that they were policemen. Some of the boys said they did not know the men were policemen. All of the boys fled, and Julian was shot as he ran through an alley.

A bullet lodged in his lower back and his condition was considered serious. He was at the city hospital until Christmas day, when he was able to go home. The bullet is still in his back and he is unable to straighten his back, according to his parents.

Baker Proclaims Patriots' Week.
By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 5.—
A proclamation declaring the week of Feb. 12 to 22 inclusive as "Pa-triot's Week" in Missouri, in connection with the sesqui-centennial of the nation, was issued today by Gov. Baker. The proclamation calls upon all the people to arrange such functions and occasions during this week so that every man, woman and child in our state may be afforded the opportunity to contribute in some way to the occasion and for the preservation of Monticello as a national memorial to the author of the Declaration of Independence, and as a patriotic shrine to the children of America.

Purse With 62 Cents Stolen.
Two men stepped from an automobile at 4529 South Grand boule-purse of Miss Celeste Weber of 4463 Grace avenue, walking home with her mother, Mrs. Anna Weber. The purse contained 62 cents, a wrist watch, four keys and a bankbook.

High Blood Pressure
Physician's Discovery Safely Reduces It To Normal and Dizzy Spells Disappear

Thousands who have dizzy spells, sleeplessness, nervousness, shortness of breath,
pains in the head and impaired energy
have been told by physicians or insurance examiners that they have high blood pressure. The serious results are well known to check it at once. High blood pressure caused by overeating the heart often brings on Bright's Disease, apoplexy and sudden death.

Normal reduces high blood pressure to normal. Often one bottle will do it.
Many have so testified. It is a doctor's prescription that is harmless and is also much used by women at the changing time of life who usually have blood pres-

CHURCH SOCIETY'S DRY LAW REPORT STARTS CROSSFIRE

Some Defend Attack on Prohibition, Others Insist Organization Cannot Speak for Episcopalians.

SOCIETY DEFUNCT, DECLARES CRITIC

Brooklyn Director Proposes Meeting of Organization's Board to Consider Its Change in Policy.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The newly announced policy of the Church Temperance Society of the Episcopal Church, favoring modification of the Volstead act and legalization
of light wines and beer, has brought a violent storm of opposition and defense throughout the United States.

Prohibition leaders, Episcopalian organizations and individual clergymen have challenged the statement of the Rev. Dr. James Em-mingsham, national secretary of the society, who in announcing the new policy, asserted that the Volstead act had failed.

The society, the challengers
maintain, has no authority to speak for the Episcopal Church, is relatively unimportant, and is in error in its reversal of policy. Members of the organization itself are taken back by the announcement. A meeting of the board of directors will be called soon to consider the situation.

Inaccurate and an Outrage.
The report of Dr. Emmingsham
today was assailed as inaccurate
and an outrage by the Rev. Dr.
W. C. Charlton, of Astoria, I. T., member of the board of directors of the Church Temperance Society.

"I know nothing at all about the questionnaire and the board of directors have had no meeting for the last 12 months at which such a matter should have been discussed," said Charlton. "The statement is entirely inaccurate and does not represent the opinion of the majority of the members of the organization. I got no notice of a meeting in Town Hall Monday night and, therefore, did not attend. The whole statement of Dr.
Emmingsham was a shock to me and is a perfect outrage. I feel sure some explanation will be asked of Dr. Emmingsham."

Defenders of Dr. Emmingsham, including several church dignitaries, assert that his conclusion after a year's investigation are correct. Dr. Emmingsham stands by his guns and reiterates that a poll of 20,000 members of the society
showed a preponderance in favor of modification of the law.

Secretary's Telephone Busy.
Statements issued in New York
say that the Women's Christian Temperance Union, the Christian Endeavor Society, the Antislavery
League and the World League Against Alcoholism are not convinced that the announcement represents the sentiment of the Church Temperance Society itself.
Dr. Emmingsham has no right to speak for the Episcopal Church in any way, says the Rev. Charles K.
Gilbert, executive secretary of the Social Service Commission of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York.

Canon William Sheafe Chase of Brooklyn, a member of the Board of Directors of the Church Temperance Society has asked for a meeting of the board to consider this "reversal of policy of the society."

Says Society Is Defunct.
Dr. Gilbert, whose organization is the official board of the Episcopal Church in the diocese of New York for dealing with social questions, said:
"Dr. Emmingsham has no right whatsoever to speak for the Episcopal Church on any subject. Nor do his views even represent the opinion of the Churchmen's Association, before which he made his responsible declarations with regard to the Episcopal Church and the question of prohibition.
Furthermore, it is my understanding that the Church Temperance Society, of which Dr. Em-mingsham is nominally the secretary, has been practically defunct since 1918. Differences arose at that time which resulted in the resignation of many members of its governing board, and the resources of the society have since been so depleted that little active work has been maintained. It is not clear to me on what ground
he speaks even for the Church Temperance Society."

CLEMENCEAU WRITING HISTORY OF THE "TRUE CONDITIONS IN WORLD"

IN an interview given by M.
Clemenceau to the Sunday Times, he related that he had written some 200,000 words,
in four volumes, which detail exclusively the observations of his life.
"That work," he said, "is not finished, but I am making a scrupulous revision of it, and it will be published next year.
I hope there is expressed in it objective truth. We are very much inclined to believe only that which pleases us, and it is my ambition, on the eve of my great journey into Eternity, to leave behind me a work which,
however modest, will be adjudged as having presented the conditions in the world today."

today by Robert E. Corradini of its research department took issue with the report, yesterday of the Rev. Mr. James Emmingsham.
The statement challenged every point in Dr. Emmingsham's survey of prohibition enforcement. It also challenged the statement that the league had brought pressure from across the Atlantic to bear upon Dr. Emmingsham to prevent the report from being published.

The league denied that the Volstead act was "mass legislation," pointed to increased prosperity of the workingman, and offered to prove from its data, compiled in 700 cities that intemperance is decreasing, instead of increasing.

Cites London Cable.
Corradini also asserted that on last Jan. 28, Dr. Emmingsham authorized him to cable London saying the report that the temperance society was about to admit the failure of prohibition was "absolutely without foundation."

The Church Temperance Society is composed of approximately 20-000 of the total 1,000,000 membership of the Protestant Episcopal Church, including both clergymen and laymen. An official of the society today explained the only organization qualified to "express opinions of policy affecting the church was the general convention, which has not discussed prohibition."

Dr. Emmingsham left today on an early train for Washington, but did not announce the purpose of his trip.

Two Vice-President Dissent From Report.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Two honorary vice president of the Church Temperance Society last night took issue with the statements of Dr.
James Emmingsham, national secretary of the society, in which he asserted that the eighteenth amendment had undone the work of 50 years of the temperance movement.

Bishop S. M. Griswold, Episcopal suffragan bishop of Chicago, said
he "would be distressed beyond measure if I thought the eighteenth amendment was in danger of repeal. I am confident that it will not be repealed and that it ought not to be repealed, but it might be desirable during the transition period to make some modification of the Volstead law."

Opposition to the repeal of the prohibition law was expressed by Bishop Reginald Weller, of Fond Du Lac, Wis.
"The prohibition law has not always been in the hands of friends,
but it is doing better now," Bishop Weller said.

Dr. Arthur Rogers, rector of St. Marks in Evanston, Ill., said he was opposed to the return of the saloon, but believed the Volstead law has created "a new type of hypocrisy, millionaire and law
breaker, and new standards of morals."

"The society has discovered the futility of the present laws on prohibition," he said.

Pittsburg Bishop in Favor of Mod- ification.

By the Associated Press.
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 5.—The Right Rev. Alexander Mann, Bishop of the Pittsburg diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church, believes that prohibition cannot be enforced and favors modification of the Volstead act to permit light wines and pure beer.

Bishop Mann gave his views today, in commenting on the advocacy of beer and light wines by the Church Temperance Society.
Bishop Mann said he believed modification "would put a stop to the distribution of a good deal of bad alcohol by bootleggers."
"Personally, I did not believe in the Eighteenth Amendment," he said, "and I think the Volstead act is a bad law. Prohibition cannot possibly be enforced. The law is resented by many persons, good and bad, who feel it is a serious infringement of personal liberty.
"The fact that every bootlegger would vote for continuance of the Volstead law is proof that it is not a good law. Understand me plainly. I do not believe in breaking any law. I believe in keeping the law, once it is passed, but I believe that bad laws should be modified.
But as long as the law remains in force it should be kept. I think it should be modified and light wines
and pure beer permitted for public consumption."

MISSOURI U. DEAN ASSAILS RESULTS OF PROHIBITION

Dr. Albert K. Heckel Says It Has Created Disrespect
for Laws and Has Not Brought Temperance.

SUSPENSIONS HAVE WHOLESALE EFFECT

22 Fraternities Pledged to Help Check Drinking
After Ouster of Football
Star and Two Girls.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 5.—Comparisons of the present time with the days before prohibition were made today by Mrs. Bessie L. Prid-dy, Dean of Women at Missouri University, and Dr. Albert K.
Heckel, Dean of Men, respectively,
in discussing the problem of curtailing drinking among students to which attention has been directed anew by the recent indefinite suspension of "Pete" Jackson, star football player and captain-elect of the eleven, and two St. Louis girls, after their attendance at a drinking party here a week ago last Wednesday night.

"When I was a student at the University of Michigan, drinking of intoxicating liquor among students was an unheard-of thing,"
said the Dean of Women. "It is a rather unusual occurrence at the University of Missouri now but it is a problem we have to deal with."
When students at a college at Roanoke, Va., where I was a student, drank beer and wine in a temperate manner, and it was seldom that a student was seen intoxicated," remarked the Dean of men. "Moonshine is about all students at Missouri can get to drink now and they can't tell how much of it they drink as they usually take it right out of the bottle."

Drinking by Women.
As to the liquor question at Missouri, older university professors here agree with the two deans and point out that the spectacle of a young student in an intoxicated condition before prohibition cannot be recalled. They admit there is some drinking being done by women students now.

Conditions here are no different than elsewhere, they maintain, as in a group of about 4000 young persons there are always some who indulge in liquor.

Dean Priddy attributes drinking
among women students to a large degree to the "moral psychology of the age." "When we had saloons most of the drinking was done in them and women didn't go to saloons," she said. "Now liquor is drunk in the homes and most everywhere where women are."

Dean Priddy asserts that drinking among all students this year has decreased over last year and says that it further can be lessened
by following the practices she and Dr. Heckel started when they came here in 1924. She said she has suspended several girls and placed a number of others on probation for drinking, but declined to give exact figures.

Opposition to Dry Law.

Dr. Heckel agrees with the recent statement in St. Louis of Dr.
Christian Gauss, dean of Princeton University, that students now have no respectable place to go to enjoy a glass or two of beer, but frequent "dives" instead. Mild opposition to prohibition was also voiced by Dr. Heckel, as did Dean Gauss in his St. Louis speech.

"Prohibition has caused disrespect for laws of this country," Dr.
Heckel declared. "I don't believe it has brought temperance, a thing
which the country was gradually coming when the eighteenth amendment was passed," he added.
It is his belief prohibition should have been left to the separate states
instead of deciding the issue
through national legislation.

The attitude of President Brooks of the University of Missouri of the prohibition question is well known. His verbal controversy with Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, at a dinner in New York in April, 1924,
having been given wide publicity.
At the dinner Dr. Butler spoke in opposition to prohibition and Dr.
Brooks chose to "disagree with nearly every sentence of Dr. Butler's speech."

Dr. Brooks told the correspondent yesterday that "drinking
among students of the University of Missouri has ceased to become a 'cute trick' and is done now only by a few students who actually have a craving for liquor."
As an aftermath to the episode, resulting in suspension of Captain-
elect Jackson and the two St.
Louis girls, presidents of the 22
Greek letter fraternities here pledged themselves yesterday to work for the elimination of drinking among students and indorsed

"THE INTIMATE PAPERS OF COL. HOUSE" Two Men for Wilson Cabinet Selected; House Himself Declines Public Office

Discusses Appointment of David F. Houston and Bryan's Willingness to Help.

In the preceding chapters, Col.
House has told of his early decision to back Woodrow Wilson, then Governor of New Jersey, for the Presidency of the United States; the narrative dealt with intimate details of the pre-convention campaign and victory at the polls, then turned to discussions of available cabinet material.

"Dec. 8, 1912.—I had a long conversation with McCombs and Vick.
I believe I had been authorized to offer McCombs a foreign embassy today he would have accepted it.
Office-seekers are driving him crazy. I suggested a foreign position and he said that he did not have sufficient money; but I told him that it would not take much.
He asked where I would suggest his going—Vienna, Italy or where?
"Dec. 11, 1912.—Mr. David F.
Houston came to dinner and spent the evening. We discussed the different Cabinet possibilities and other matters. He knows that I have suggested him to the President-elect for Secretary of Agriculture.

"Dec. 18, 1912.—Gov. Wilson
came at 1:30. I talked to him about Morgenthau and suggested him for Turkey. He replied, 'There ain't going to be no Turkey,' and I said, 'Then let him go look for it.'
"Bryan was also discussed freely.
I advised him to offer Bryan the Secretaryship of State, but afterward to suggest it would be of great service if he would go to Russia at this critical time. He thought Bryan would want to discuss with him the personnel of his Cabinet and that they could never agree. I argued that there were many people and things that they could agree upon, as their object was really the same only their ways of getting at it were different. He might, I thought, mention the names of Burleson, Palmer, Culbertson, Gore, Hoke Smith and Bob Henry, as I had suggested, to come
to Trenton this week. Tumulty
said the Governor did not want to invite them much, as he thought
there was nothing that he wished
to discuss with them. Tumulty
explained to him that I thought
he should see them in order to complicate them rather than to expect much help from their advice.
He then consented to see them."

Poor Material in Sight.

"Jan. 7, 1913.—McAdoo came at 5 and remained until 7 o'clock.
We discussed Cabinet possibilities.
He wanted to know what my general idea was, and I told him that I thought the Governor had poor material to select from. McAdoo replied, 'I believe you are right, and you may include me, too.' I disclaimed any thought of reference to him, but he cheerfully included himself."

"Jan. 8, 1913.—I told him (Wilson) he was now leaving Texas out of the Cabinet. His reply was, 'I want you to go in the Cabinet.'
He urged me not to give a definite answer for the present and said he very much wished me to be a member of his official family, that it seemed to coincide with the fitness of things."

"He generously asked me what place I would like, evidently leaving me to choose. I regard this as a very high compliment, for the reason that he has offered me to take a place in the Cabinet up to now excepting upon just after the election
as a political necessity. Of course, I shall not take any office,
although I would do much to oblige
him and to be of service. My reasons are that I am not strong enough to be myself down to a Cabinet department and, in addition, my general disinclination to hold office. I very much prefer being a free lance and to advise with him regarding matters in general and to have a roving commission to serve wherever and whenever possible."

"Walter Page lunched with me
today (the Colonel wrote on Jan.
14). I found that he had been advising Gov. Wilson very much along the lines I have. . . .
"I tried him out as to the department in which he was most interested. If the Governor appointed him I shall advise that he be given the Interior. I told Page that I was fearful that the Governor was thinking of appointing too many Independents and that he was not looking for rock-ribbed Democrats."

Talks With Mrs. Wilson.
The Colonel struck the same note
on the following day in a talk with Mrs. Wilson, whose influence with her husband he evidently counted upon.
"I told her that the men the Governor had in mind for his Cabinet were nearly all irregular party men and that most of them had voted for Taft four years ago. I cited — as an instance. She spoke up immediately and said,
"But you would not keep him out of the Cabinet on that account?"
I replied no, not in his case, but I would not put in too many with the same sort of record, for the reason that the moment the Cabinet was announced their political records would be exposed."

I thought that in 20 years from now no one would know how the different departments of the Government had been run and that the President's fame would rest entirely upon the big constructive measures he was able to get through Congress; and in order to get them through he had to be on more or less good terms with that body. This, I thought, was one of the most important things he had to consider, for his future reputation would rest almost wholly upon it."

Of all the politicians, the one whose influence during the first legislative session would be most valuable was, of course, Mr. Bryan.
The Governor agreed, House recorded on June 19, that it would be well for the Colonel to go to Miami, where Bryan was building
a Southern home, and explain Wilson's plans.
He said I could talk to him freely, but that it was to give him (Bryan) information and not to ask his advice," House records.

Col. House to President-elect:
I MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 20, 1913.
Dear Governor:
I had a long conference with our friend last night and again today. . . .
Catholic or a Jew.
He is very earnest in his advice
that a Catholic, and perhaps a Jew, be taken into the family. I told him Tumulty's appointment as Secretary would cover the one,
but he thought not. He suggests Gov. Higgins of Rhode Island as a possible choice. He shows a very fine spirit and is exceedingly anxious for your success. He also shows no disposition whatever to interfere, even in his own department. He says he would like to name his first assistant unless you have some one you want to place there.
He thinks the Pacific slope should be recognized, but he does not seem to get beyond Phelan and Lane—
although I do not think he would seriously object to any one excepting Teal.
He likes the suggestion you made to me for Germany (Prof. Fine of Princeton), but has no one in mind
for England. . . .
He has accepted all your conclusions so cordially that it has been a pleasure to me to discuss matters with him.
Yours very faithful,
E. M. HOUSE.

thing frankly and without fear of misunderstanding, but that if I were an applicant for any position both he and I would feel the restraint. . . .
"The more I see of McAdoo, the better I like him. He is a splendid fellow, whole-souled and generous, without a trace of envy, and with all he is honest and progressive."

"Dec. 23, 1912.—Tumulty was with me from 5 until 9:30 in the evening. We went over the situation in detail. He is very desirous of being secretary to the President."

"I asked Tumulty how many letters of protest the Governor was receiving against himself for that position. He admitted that there had been five or six hundred. I inquired if he showed them to the Governor. He had not shown them all, but had always told him of the number received. He did not show him the letters which were the most favorable to him, either."

"Jan. 5, 1913.—The Governor has invited Burleson, Palmer, Culbertson, Gore, Hoke Smith and Bob Henry, as I had suggested, to come
to Trenton this week. Tumulty
said the Governor did not want to
invite them much, as he thought
there was nothing that he wished
to discuss with them. Tumulty
explained to him that I thought
he should see them in order to com-

pect much help from their advice.
He then consented to see them."

Attorney-Generals.

"We discussed again the Attorney-Generals. . . . We went back to McReynolds and I thought different phases of the situation
than anyone I had talked to.
He asked if I considered McAdoo suited for the Treasury, and I thought he was; under ordinary conditions I should say an Eastern man would be a bad choice, but that in this instance I heartily approved McAdoo."

"Dec. 19, 1912.—Gov. Wilson
called. I thought the telephone and said that McCombs was distinctly disappointed at the ambassadorial
offer made him yesterday, and no decision was arrived at. He wanted to know again about Bryan and my advice about it. I advised him cordially in making the offer, and to make it plain afterward
that he would appreciate his taking the foreign post (the Ambassadorship to Russia)."

"B. M. Baruch, McCombs' friend, told Wallace that he had advised McCombs not to accept office, but to resign from the National Committee and to go into the practice of law as soon as his health permits. McCombs seems terribly put up over the fact that Gov. Wilson has not offered him all that he desired and that he tendered him an Ambassadorship instead of a Cabinet place."

"I called up Gov. Wilson to talk things over, and he asked if I still held to my advice about Mr.
Bryan, and I answered 'yes.' This is the third or fourth time he has asked me this. It shows how distrustful he is of having Mr.
Bryan in his Cabinet."

"Dec. 21, 1912.—Tumulty telephoned about the Governor's and Bryan's interview. Bryan was in fine humor and everything was lovely."

Wouldn't Take Office.

"Dec. 23, 1912 (House and Col.
George Harvey taking lunch together—Martin was also at lunch).
Harvey told him that I was the best adviser the President-elect had, and that he thought I should be given the Secretaryship of the Treasury. Martin wanted to know if my health permitted, would I take it? I replied, 'No! If I were strong as a bull!' That, as it was, the Governor discussed every-

sign from the national committee and go into the practice of law."

sense which is lacking in her distinguished husband.

"Jan. 31, 1913.—Mr. Bryan came over in the evening and we had another political talk. He was much distressed when I told him
that Gov. Wilson had offered the Chinese mission to Dr. Charles W.
Eliot. He thought it the poorest
selection that could be made, for the reason that Eliot was a Unitarian and did not believe in the divinity of Christ, and the new Chinese civilization was founded
upon the Christian movement
there. I asked him to state his objections in writing, not only as
to Dr. Eliot, but as to any member of the proposed Cabinet. I said
as far as Eliot was concerned, it
was too late; but I did not believe
Dr. Eliot would accept, for he had told the Governor that he would
take it only if his wife approved,
and he was afraid she would not."

Urges Note to Bryan.
Col. House to the President-elect:
ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla.,
Feb. 6, 1913.
Dear Governor: Our friend has
asked me many times whether I
had heard from you in response to
his suggestions. He wired me just before he left for Havana, asking
the same question.
If I were you, I would send him
a line indicating that you appreciated his interest and had found
his suggestions helpful. He will be back in Miami next Thursday,
and if he found a note from you
awaiting him it would please him
greatly. . . .
Your very faithful
E. M. HOUSE.

Upon Col. House's return, early
in February, Wilson felt himself
prepared to make the definite appointments.
It was already settled that Bryan
should be Secretary of State. Mc-Adoo had accepted the Treasury
portfolio and Burleson was to be offered that of Postmaster General.
Two selections urged by House from the beginning. For Agriculture,
Wilson had determined upon the distinguished economist, D. F.
Houston, chancellor of Washington
University, another close friend of
House. Josephus Daniels, a North Carolina editor, and W. B. Wilson,
once a miner and an active albeit conservative labor leader, were to
be given the portfolios of the navy
and of labor respectively. There remained those of war, the Interior, justice and commerce.
"Feb. 8, 1913.—The President-elect writes that he needs to see me for a final conference about the official on the Secretaryship of Agriculture. On that case he is clear and his mind made up, but he thinks it best for me to open the matter with him. The Treasury has been offered and accepted as we planned."

Chapter 7 tomorrow will carry the first Wilson cabinet to completion, "a melange of administrators."
Col. House quotes Walter Hines Page as saying Josephus Daniels was "not even a splinter" of cabinet material.

He will succeed Dr. E. D. Ball, who

E. M. HOUSE.
"Jan. 20, 1913.—Mr. Bryan was as pleased with his new place," recorded Col. House, "as a child with a new toy. He is really a fine man, full of democratic simplicity;
earnest, patriotic and of a fervently religious nature. Mrs. Bryan is the 'salt of the earth.' She has all the poise and good common sense which is lacking in her distinguished husband.

"Jan. 31, 1913.—Mr. Bryan came
over in the evening and we had
another political talk. He was much distressed when I told him
Chinese mission to Dr. Charles W.
Eliot. He thought it the poorest
selection that could be made, for
the reason that Eliot was a Uni-
tarian and did not believe in the
divinity of Christ, and the new Chinese civilization was founded
upon the Christian movement
there. I asked him to state his objections in writing, not only as
to Dr. Eliot, but as to any member of the proposed Cabinet. I said
as far as Eliot was concerned, it
was too late; but I did not believe
Dr. Eliot would accept, for he had
told the Governor that he would
take it only if his wife approved,

Urges Note to Bryan.
Col. House to the President-elect:
ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla.,
Feb. 6, 1913.
Dear Governor: Our friend has
asked me many times whether I
had heard from you in response to
before he left for Havana, asking
the same question.
If I were you, I would send him
a line indicating that you appreciated his interest and had found
his suggestions helpful. He will
be back in Miami next Thursday,
and if he found a note from you
awaiting him it would please him
greatly. . . .
Your very faithful
E. M. HOUSE.

Upon Col. House's return, early
in February, Wilson felt himself
prepared to make the definite appointments.
It was already settled that Bryan
should be Secretary of State. Mc-
Adoo had accepted the Treasury
portfolio and Burleson was to be offered that of Postmaster General.
Two selections urged by House from
the beginning. For Agriculture,
Wilson had determined upon the
distinguished economist, D. F.
Houston, chancellor of Washington
University, another close friend of
House. Josephus Daniels, a North Carolina editor, and W. B. Wilson,
once a miner and an active albeit
conservative labor leader, were to
be given the portfolios of the navy
and of labor respectively. There remained those of war, the Interior, justice and commerce.

ROOSEVELTIAN TOAST BY PRINCE OF WALES

Farming and Fox-Hunting Just "Bully," He Says, With Arm in Sling.

By the Associated Press.

MELTON MOWBRAY, LEICESTERSHIRE, England, Feb. 5.—With one arm in a sling and strapped closely to his body and smiled upon by a bevy of rosy-checked, bright-eyed farmers' daughters, the Prince of Wales had a feast here last evening with a crowd of local farmers. His hosts were men over whose farms in Leicestershire Wales often has galloped, and sometimes rolled when he came a cropper, while following the hounds. The arm in the sling is a consequence of one of these tumbles.

The Duke of York and Prince Henry, brothers of Wales, also were guests of the farmers, and it was a free-and-easy dinner. A homely fare of roast and boiled joints, boiled vegetables and simple puddings, was placed on the table. The help to the throne, of Great Britain wore a grey lounge suit and a blue shirt and collar. A majority of those present also had on morning dress, but the Duke of York and Prince Henry donned evening clothes.

In proposing a joint toast to farmers and fox-hunting, Wales recalled an election speech attributed to Theodore Roosevelt, in which he quoted the former American President as having said: "I stand for the Ten Commandments. They're just bully." The Prince added that his acquaintance with farming and fox-hunting enabled him to adopt the President's words and say that farming and fox-hunting also were just bully.

The speech pleased the farmers greatly.

DEMOCRATS HANG HOPE OF CONTROL ON WORLD COURT

view of the way they play politics in Illinois.

Democracy Is One Obstacle.

Senator McKinley flinched with the idea of hitching up with Gov. Small's outfit early in the game, but is said to have received a stern injunction from his colleague, Senator Deneen, himself the owner of a faction, that if he did he would hear the thunders of the war drums on that side of the fence.

It is no wonder that his brother Senators are inviting Senator McKinley to take the easiest lounge in the cloak room, are careful not to interrupt him when he speaks and generally are making observations that of the particularly appetizing breakfast that is served the star on the morning of a hanging.

Mrs. Medill McCormick is still for McKinley, which is remarkable considering that she inherited her husband's fight against the World Court and the McCormick interest in the Tribune.

The Democrats are praying that President Coolidge will put the full strength of the administration's support behind the doomed Senator.

Indiana Democrats Hopeful.

They are entertaining the same kind of hope in Indiana, not that there are over many Democrats but when the Indiana Republicans really get their backs up at each other they go the limit, as recall Senator Ralston's defeat of Senator Beveridge when the latter snipped up Harry New in the primaries with the help of Senator Watson.

If the Democrats play in that sort of luck, nothing can keep them from winning the Senate. They think Ray Baker will beat Senator Odell in Nevada, that David I. Walsh is sure to lick Senator Butler in Massachusetts, that Senator Cameron of Arizona is fated to go, and that they will have no trouble beating Senator Ernest in Kentucky, Senator Harrell in Oklahoma, Senator Means in Colorado and Senator Weller in Maryland. They believe that among Washington, Oregon, California and Missouri they have a good chance to pick up at least one more seat.

Until the World Court fight they counted the scalp of Senator Williams of Missouri as already lifted. The Senator, however, cuddled up close to Jim Reed, so close in fact that it is pretty hard to figure out as campaigning against him in view of the declaration of war by that puissant irreconcilable against all who voted for the World Court closure, which ought to imply loyalty to those who voted on Reed's side.

Conditions React Against Hawes.

Perhaps the Missourians exaggerate when they say that in their State there are only two political organizations—Reed and the Republicans—but there is enough truth in it to make things hard for representative Harry Hawes, who is expected, and still hopes, to be promoted to the Senate this time.

Reed's tremendous popularity may pull him through despite the evil way in which the cards have fallen, but Missouri can no longer be counted as sure for a Democratic Senator this year.

In addition to these prospects the Democrats are figuring on an increase in the insurgent Republican delegation. Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin is marked for slaughter by the La Follette people, Senator

Cummins in Iowa is shaky, particularly if Senator Brookhart should be ousted—that contest is still on before the Election Committee of the Senate—and not improbably whether Brookhart stays or goes.

Is it any wonder, with this layout ahead, that Congress and the President are all eating, sleeping, drinking and thinking politics, or that from the White House comes assurance that the country is getting along fine and that the people should not take too seriously what the Senators and Representatives are saying to the contrary, and that it threatens to be a race between Democrats and Republicans as to which will open the treasury door widest to the important, important and important farmer.

FUNERAL OF JOHN RING SR. TO BE TOMORROW MORNING

Services at St. Francis Xavier's Church for Veteran Member of Merchants' Exchange.

The funeral of John Ring Sr., veteran provision broker, who died early yesterday at his home, 3924 Westminster place, will be at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at St. Francis Xavier's Church. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Mr. Ring, who was 55 years old, had been a member of the Merchants' Exchange for 70 years, beginning with a junior membership when he was 15 years old and continuing his connection until last year. Death was due to the infirmities of age. He is survived by three children—John Ring Jr., 4927 Laclede avenue; Miss Genevieve D. Ring and Mrs. L. R. Padberg of 3819 South Grand boulevard.

FUNERAL OF PRINCIPAL OF ROCK SPRING SCHOOL

Miss Margaret K. Slater Had Been in Charge There 31 Years and Teacher for 56.

Classes were dismissed this afternoon at the Rock Spring School out of respect to the memory of Miss Margaret K. Slater, for 31 years principal of the school, whose funeral was held from an undertaker's chapel at 4449 Olive street, with interment in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Miss Slater, who was 75 years old, died Wednesday at her home, 4228 Page boulevard, following a two weeks' illness from pneumonia. She had been a teacher in the St. Louis public schools for 56 years. She was a contributor of verse to newspapers and magazines and engaged in researches in philosophy.

MRS. EMMA R. ADAMS DEAD

Funeral Services to Be Held Tomorrow at Woodstock, Vt.

The funeral of Mrs. Emma Richmond Adams, widow of Judge Elmer B. Adams of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, will be tomorrow at her home town, Woodstock, Vt., where she died yesterday. She was about 80 years old, and death is attributed to infirmities.

Judge Adams and Mrs. Adams were natives of Vermont, but resided in St. Louis for 44 years. Judge Adams died here in 1916, and since then Mrs. Adams and her sister, Mrs. John P. Bryson, have alternately lived at Woodstock and in St. Louis. They were at Hotel Chase until last May, when they went to Woodstock.

DEBATE ON DRY
LAW BY RADIO

Edge of New Jersey Argues for Modification, Dill of Washington Against Change.

BOTH AGREE ON WIDE CORRUPTION

Edge Says Modification
Will Improve Public
Morals, Dill Urges Strict Enforcement.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The prohibition question was debated at the air by two members of the Senate last night.

Speaking from the studio of WRC, Senator Edge (Rep.) of New Jersey, took the side of those advocating modification of the Volstead act, while Senator Dill (Dem.) of Washington, made the opposite case on behalf of those opposing any change in that law.

Addressing an audience over the country reached through a series of linked-up stations, Senator Edge opened the debate with a talk of ten minutes. Senator Dill followed for 15 minutes, and then the New Jersey Senator was heard for 10 minutes in rebuttal.

The speakers agreed that corruption of public officials and a widespread illicit traffic in liquors had allowed enactment of the Volstead act, but they were far apart as to the means of correcting these evils.

Senator Edge said that modification of the Volstead act "within the clear terms of the Constitution would partly subdue the spirit of protest and challenge now so apparent."

Moral Basis of Argument.
"Would it not be far better for the morals of the nation to have a temperate condition," he asked,
than to have prohibition that does not prohibit, but, rather, breeds defiance, and in addition leaves in wake a rapidly broadening trail
of misery and corruption?"

Declaring that "the bootleggers
and the extreme dries are together making all efforts for modification," Senator Edge said, "public opinion, as now daily expressed from the pulpit and the forum, is demanding action and freely admitting the error we have made."

"We are not enlisted in an effort to tear down, but rather to build up," he added. "To amend an unworkable law is not to violate it,
but rather to make it worthy of the great republic in which we live."

Dill's Reply.
Senator Dill told his audience that to legalize the sale of beer and other wines would be to return to conditions of pre-prohibition days,
which he contended were far worse
than those existing after six years of prohibition.

"There is only one course to follow if we are to remedy the evils that confront us," he said. "That is the straight-forward, honest
course of obeying and enforcing the law."

"How shall we do this? First,
there should be a nation-wide educational campaign against the use of alcohol and in favor of law enforcement and obedience to law."

"Second, stop the smuggling of beer from Canada and Europe by border patrols and by use of the navy at sea if necessary."

"Third, pay prohibition enforcement officials better salaries."

"Fourth, take the appointment of prohibition officials out of politics and appoint and retain them
on their merits."

"We have never had real law enforcement since the Eighteenth amendment was adopted, but poor enforcement has been, the benefits are greater than have ever been from any reform in the United States unless it be the abolition of slavery."

Worries About Sick Wife—Now She's Well

Because his wife had stomach trouble, T. Williams worried a great deal. He got her to try the mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adierka, and now his worries are over. She says she feels like a new woman.

Many people keep the OUTSIDE body clean, but let their INSIDE body stay full of gas and poisons. Give the inside a REAL cleansing with the mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as sold under the name of Adierka. This acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, eliminates metabolic poisons and removes old matter which you never thought was in your system, and which caused sour stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, etc. Whenever you eat too much heavy food, eat Adierka. It moves the undigested surplus and leaves you feeling fine. ONE spoonful relieves GAS and takes away that full, bloated feeling. Even if your bowels move every day, Adierka brings out much additional matter which might cause trouble. Don't waste time with pills or tablets, but let Adierka give your stomach and bowels QUICK relief.

What Doctors Say
Dr. G. Eggers reports Adierka is the best medicine he has used in 37 years.
Dr. W. H. Bernhart writes he could not get along in his practice without Adierka.
Dr. J. J. Weaver, a doctor of 50 years, says he knows no medicine better than Adierka.
Dr. L. Langlois prescribes Adierka regularly with GOOD effect.
J. E. Puckett writes: "After using Adierka I feel better than for 20 years. All my impurities were eliminated from my system."
Adierka is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicine because of the REAL and quick action. Sold by leading druggists everywhere. In St. Louis by Wolff-Wilson Drug Store, Kenderle Drug Co., Johnson Bros. Drug Co., and other leading druggists.

Get Rid of Your Rheumatism Before Winter Sets In Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenru, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenru has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiful and where the patient was helpless.

James H. Allen, of 26 Forbes St. Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of Allenru, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance.

EIGHT GREENHOUSES TO SHELTER ORCHIDS

Shaw's Garden Gets Ready to Remove Collection to Gray's Summit in Spring.

Eight special greenhouses are virtually completed at Gray's Summit to shelter the orchid collection of Shaw's Garden from the smoky atmosphere of the city. Director George T. Moore announced in his annual report, published in the current issue of the garden bulletin.

As previously told in the Post-Dispatch, a process of giving every orchid in the garden a mud bath to clear it of the accumulation of soot has been going on for two months. It is a slow task, but will be finished in time to remove all the collections, except those retained at the city garden for exhibition or research, to the Gray's Summit addition this spring.

Each of the greenhouses is 100 feet long by 27 feet wide, with a head house connecting them and an accompanying road. The benches are specially constructed to hold water in sufficient depth to grow lilies, thus increasing facilities for these plants and providing an evaporation surface to maintain the humidity required by the delicate tropical orchids. An improved method of shading is expected to aid in preserving the orchids through the summer.

Rain water precipitated from the greenhouse roofs is to be stored in a 150,000-gallon reservoir and an eight-acre lake, with a drainage of 80 acres and a capacity of 6,000,000 gallons, has been constructed and already is nearly full. All the plants of the garden except those kept in town for purposes of display and experiment will be removed in time to Gray's Summit. The property there includes 1200 acres with a two-mile front on the Meramec River, 38 miles from St. Louis on Manchester road.

Planting of 3000 evergreens last fall and of beds of seeds from China and Austria last spring as the beginning of a large nursery were described in the report. Dr. Moore related that 14,000 bulbs and roots of wild flowers no longer locally extant were planted. "Thousands of native cedars cover the limestone hills and the intervening ravines are filled with wild flowers," Dr. Moore wrote. "Over 50 kinds of native trees grow there, and although the list is by no means complete, over 500 different kinds of plants have been listed, some of them so rare that this is practically the only location known for them in the State."

Total attendance at the garden last year was 240,416, with 53,464 in November, when the chrysanthemum show was held, as the peak.

CONGREGATIONAL WOMEN'S MISSION ELECTS OFFICERS

Mrs. B. F. Finkel of Springfield, Mo., Chosen to Succeed Herself as President.

Mrs. B. F. Finkel, of Springfield, was re-elected president of the Congregational Women's Home Missionary Union yesterday, at Fountain Park Congregational Church, Fountain and Aubert avenues. The organization includes four state divisions, all of which were represented at the gathering. The state superintendent, the Rev. Dr. Alfred Ray Atwood, reviewed the history of the mission union, and the Rev. Dr. A. H. Armstrong, executive secretary of the Church Federation, spoke on "Home Missions in a Christian Democracy." Other speakers were the Rev. Dr. Russell Henry Stafford, pastor of Pilgrim Church; Miss Ruth E. Reed, dean of women at Drury College; Mrs. George M. Siemens, Mrs. G. L. Clark and Mrs. H. M. Pfleger.

Other officers elected were: Mrs. H. M. Pfleger of St. Louis, first vice president; Mrs. J. H. Kitchen of Kansas City, second vice president; Miss Edith Norton of Kansas City, treasurer; Mrs. A. W. Brewster of Kansas City, recording secretary, and Mrs. W. B. Henderson of Kansas City, recording secretary.

775 NAMES ON PETITION TO REVOKE TOWN'S CHARTER

Affidavit Filed by Fairview City Citizens—Other Side to Be Given a Hearing.

William Bray, attorney for citizens of Fairview City, who first had the town's charter revoked, today made affidavit before the St. Louis County Court that the 775 names signed to the document were those of legal voters and constituted more than two-thirds of the city's electorate.

He took this step, he said, to avoid the necessity of checking the names, which would cost $1 each. After the affidavit had been filed Judge Preiss declared the Court should give a hearing to those who favor a retention of the charter, and Tuesday was set as the day on which they could be heard.

Fairview City is between Pine Lawn and Jennings. It was incorporated in November, but the petitioners contend the step was taken without due notice to residents.

WABASH GETS SWITCH PERMIT

The Board of Public Service today approved the application of the Wabash Railroad for a permit to run a switch from the main line to the plant of Bay Brothers Lumber Co. at Goodfellow and Florissant avenues, the switch to cross Goodfellow and Gladys avenues. The permit is granted on condition the railroad and lumber company stipulate to remove the tracks or otherwise eliminate the Goodfellow avenue grade crossing at any time in the future if Goodfellow avenue is widened and made a major thoroughfare, as contemplated.

The board will let contracts, March 16, for boilers and other equipment, the estimated cost of which is $235,000, for the new waterworks on the Missouri River.

PINCHOT DEMANDS FAIR CHANCE FOR MINE BILLS

Pennsylvania Governor Criticizes Legislature's Policy as "Picking" Measures.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5.—Gov. Pinchot, who last night conferred with John L. Lewis, head of the miners' organization on the hard coal strike situation, today made a "demand" upon members of the Pennsylvania Legislature to give anthracite mining measures and other bills "full and fair consideration." This, he declared, had been promised by W. Harry Baker, chairman of the Republican State committee, at the outset of the extra session of the General Assembly.

Both the Governor and Lewis continued to maintain silence regarding their meeting. They were in conference for an hour and 15 minutes but neither would reveal what was discussed.

The Governor talked freely, however, about the Legislature. Characterizing unfavorable action of the House Mines Committee on administration coal bills as "unworthy," he declared it was "commonly reported" that the same method would be used by the organization in dealing with other measures and that the bills "whose passage is so urgently needed, will be pickled or otherwise put out of the way."

"I protested against such unworthy tactics in dealing with great public necessities," he said. "The coal crisis constitutes a great and pressing emergency. To many thousands of Pennsylvanians it is nothing less than a calamity."

The mining region is digging itself out of the worst snowstorm of the winter. Relief agencies in all parts of the region, which for weeks have been feeding the hungry, made further appeals for funds which are said to be sorely needed.

STABLES AND ATTICS IN MAYFAIR USED AS HOMES

Stamped for Quarters Attributed to People's Desire to Reside Near Duke of York.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Many of London's aristocracy are busy converting disused stables and attics
in Mayfair into stylish maisonnettes
for their own use and the Duke and Duchess of York indirectly are responsible.

Since these members of the King's family settled in Mayfair
there has been a stampede of those who wish to live near enough to bask in the royal smiles.

There is a great shortage of houses in this section, and those available are enormous and expensive old-fashioned mansions, costly to lease and expensive to maintain.
Hence the conversion of stables.

Mayfair has, of course, long been the home of the elite. It is to London what Park avenue and Fifth avenue are to New York.

In the old days, there were many mansions filled with small buildings in which the blooded nobles and the fine carriages of the aristocracy were housed. Since the automobile has come into such common use, however, the glossy steeds and the gorgeously uniformed lackeys have largely joined the other picturesque relics of the heyday of blue blood. Now there are few mansions in Mayfair these days which do not house distinguished families.

BILL TO REQUIRE MARKING OF COLD STORAGE EGGS KILLED

A proposed ordinance requiring grocers to placard cold storage
eggs as such was killed by the Legislative Committee of the Board of Aldermen yesterday. It will be reported unfavorably to the board
today and filed.

The committee was swayed by the arguments of cold storage concerns, which declared that the stigma attached to the term "cold storage" would create a condition of unjust discrimination if the bill were passed. The bill would have required grocers to mark their egg containers with a sign "cold storage eggs," or, in the case of eggs
30 days old or more, "Hold eggs."

The committee also voted to abandon a "quarantine bill" designed to prohibit the solicitation of business in front of a store by agents of another store. The Aldermen held that an ordinance now on the books serves the same purpose.

A bill to require contractors and others to get a permit and file blue bond for use as a load of building material dumped on a public street was also dropped, as cumbersome.

One bill that received a favorable vote was that of Alderman Uell requiring that the weight of a vehicle and load on a public street be not more than 25,000 pounds, unless a special permit is obtained. This measure provides a fine of from $5 to $500 for violation.

ROBBERS HALT FREIGHT TRAIN, GET ALCOHOL WORTH $10,000

By the Associated Press.

PEORIA, Ill., Feb. 5.—Three truck loads of alcohol, valued at $10,000, was stolen by 10 men who held up a freight train near Putnam, Ill., north of here, on the Rock Island line, last midnight.

According to reports to Peoria police, one of the robbers eventually boarded the train at Henry, and when the train neared Putnam cut
the air hose, halting the train.
Three accomplices leaped into the engine cab, covering the engineer and firemen, while others herded
the conductor, Charles Summers, and the train guard, J. Fitzpatrick, from the rear of the train to the engine cab. Others then backed up three trucks to the rear threeway and unloaded the alcohol.
Other merchandise in these three cars was not touched.

Who Doing Good Work

I have been had off with stomach and bowels for many years. On advice of my doctor I bought a bottle of Ma's (or more) and will convince you that I don't want to miss a single dose. I have given me more benefit than all the medicine I have ever taken. I feel I am doing good to recommend it to others. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allows the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including indigestion. One dose will convince or money refunded. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Wall Street, New York, and druggists everywhere.

Rid Your Blood of Psoriasis Eczema and Stubborn Skin Eruptions with Deep Sea Water

If You Can't Do It With Ocean-O Walgreen Drug Co. Will Be Glad to Return Your Money

Bad blood, or at least blood that is not balanced mineral, is responsible for all skin eruptions except those of an infectious nature.

Local treatments may help for a little while, but why not get rid of skin troubles forever?

You've heard of Ocean-O, of late a long time. That means that a bottle will cure you.

One doctor says that in a case of general psoriasis of several years' standing the eruption began to fade in a week—but we are told it cannot be over come.

Walgreen Drug Co. or any reliable drug store will give you a bottle of Ocean-O today and start to banish skin eruptions. Use one bottle as directed, and if it doesn't help you—get your money back.

And bear in mind that Ocean-O is a wonderful blood purifier and internal tonic and that after a bottle has been taken the blood is purified and cold water as directed—cold water will cause the eruption to fade and the eruption will be cured.

There isn't a grain of anything artificial in Ocean-O. It is a natural water treatment, and it is easy to take and no action.

MAYOR TO HAVE 300 BOOSTERS AT BANQUET

Plan Presumed to Be Set Up
Call for Miller to Address
Young G. O. P.

Mayor Miller, barred from the official speaking program of the annual Lincoln day banquet of the Association of Young Republicans at Springfield next Friday, will attend the affair and, if the Miller strategy is successful, will be a speaker, although the official invitation will be lacking.

The scheme of the Mayor's advisers and intimate supporters, it is understood among local Republicans, is to have seats at the banquet table for some 200 St. Louis Republicans, including a goodly sprinkling of City Hall department heads and employees. In addition there will be present something like 100 followers of the Dickey-Madison-Parshall clique in Kansas City, which is antagonistic to Senator Williams because of his removal of Madison from the office of United States District Attorney, and his impending removal of Parshall from the office of United States Marshal in Kansas City.

This Kansas City contingent is urging the St. Louis Mayor to become a candidate against Senator Williams for the nomination for the Senate.

Plan to Call for Miller.

What could be more natural than for the Mayor's followers to sit patiently through the long speaking program, and at its conclusion set up a loud call for Miller to speak?

What presiding officer could refuse to permit him to speak when several hundred of the diners were calling for him?

How the regular organization Republicans, who are supporting Senator Williams, will act in the situation will be awaited with interest.

The association of young Republicans as an organization has wielded little influence in Missouri politics. In fact it has been little more than a society to hold an annual banquet. However, this year it appears of considerably more importance than it has in the past, and there are many Republicans who believe there is a possibility that it will develop Mayor Miller as a candidate against Senator Williams.

Bearing on Senate Race.

This possible outcome is expected to hinge upon the support the Mayor can secure among the Republicans from out in the State. If he finds he has any real strength, and it is certain that he has considerable more than anti-Miller Republicans in St. Louis are willing to concede him, there is reason to believe that he will enter the race.

Friends of the Mayor, who say the next step in his program of political ambition is the United States senatorship, have outlined reasons which, in their opinion, should influence him to seek the nomination this year rather than wait until Senator Reed's term expires in 1928.

They have pointed out that if he waits until 1928 in all probability he will have for opponents Secretary of War Davis and former Gov. Hyde; that Davis probably would cut the Miller vote in St. Louis deeply, and that Hyde could be expected to get the nomination.

They have said that now the Mayor has a working organization in the city, with a large number of followers on the city payroll, and that he has something of an organization out in the State, remaining from his unsuccessful 1924 campaign for the nomination for the governorship.

Could Continue as Mayor.

Another reason they have advanced is that if Senator Williams, a St. Louisian, is re-elected this year, he will be in the Senate in 1928, and another St. Louisian seeking the nomination would be under serious handicap out in the State, where voters probably would look unkindly on having both seats in the Senate held by St. Louis.

Miller need not resign the office of Mayor to seek that of Senator, they have said, and even if he failed to obtain the nomination he could remain as Mayor, would have suffered little, if any, by defeat, and then could run again in 1928 if he saw fit to do so.

Whatever may be one's idea about the desirability of a senatorial candidacy by the Mayor, it is undoubtedly among the strong possibilities and probably the situation which develops at Springfield will determine his action.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acrid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Miller's Antiseptic Oil, Known as Snake Oil

STOPS PAIN

From east to coast men and women are singing the praise of "Snake Oil." It is a powerful, penetrating pain-relieving liniment. It will penetrate the thickest sole leather in 3 minutes. Mrs. B. Warner, New Orleans, writes: "I am so glad to tell you of my wonderful relief from rheumatism and neuralgia after using your Snake Oil. It relieved me of the most excruciating pain I have ever known after other remedies failed."

"I had rheumatism so bad I had to walk on crutches for nine years," says H. C. Hendrix, old soldier of Minneapolis, Minn. "After three months' treatment with 'Snake Oil' I laid off my crutches and now can walk like a boy."

J. B. Moore, Pittsburgh, Pa., railroad man, says: "Snake Oil is the only liniment that ever gave me relief from rheumatism. I use it regularly after being exposed to bad weather. For rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, stiff joints, pain in back and limbs, corns, bunions, chest colds, sore throat, 'Snake Oil' is the only remedy without an equal. Refuse imitations. This great oil is a golden rule cure. Get it by Herb Juice Medicine Co., U. S. A. Get it at Walgreen's (formerly Judge & Doherty Drug Store).

Open sores on leg for more than year

Resinol healed in few weeks

Toledo, Ohio, Aug. 24: "I have been troubled with running sores on my leg for a year or more and all the medical attention and treatments I tried did no good. One day I saw an advertisement for Resinol Ointment in the newspaper and bought a jar of it. In less than three weeks my sores healed up and have been well ever since. As my wife has been sick for nearly a year and had sores we induced her to try this salve and the sores are healing splendidly. I have bought several jars of it and believe me it will always be on the shelf in my bath room." (Signed) Alfred E. Baur, 1014 Monroe St.

PLEA MADE FOR REVERSAL IN CASE OF HEBER NATIONS

Counsel for Defendant Grows Dramatic in Charging Federal Judge
Faris With Prejudice.

43 ALLEGED ERRORS
CITED IN ARGUMENT

Patrick H. Cullen Alleges Jury Was Beaten Into Submission by Sledgehammer Instructions.

Charging that the Federal Jury which convicted Heber Nations, former State Labor Commissioner and Klan leader, of participation in the Griesedieck protected beer scandal was "beaten into submission" by a "sledgehammer instruction" delivered by Judge Faris, Patrick H. Cullen, counsel for Nations, yesterday made a plea for reversal of the verdict before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

There are 43 specifications of alleged error in Cullen's assignment of errors to the court but he dwelt on most of them briefly. His greatest effort was to prove that Judge Faris was prejudiced against Nations and should have disqualified himself as a trial judge. Nations was found guilty of conspiracy to violate the Volstead act in a verdict returned May 29. Judge Faris sentenced him to serve 18 months in the penitentiary and pay a fine of $3333. The fine was one-third the maximum and approximated about one-third of the amount which testimony showed had been paid for "protection" on the manufacture of Griesedieck beer at $1 a case.

Three Judges Hearing Appeal. The hearing yesterday was held in the state appeals courtroom in the Federal Building before Judges Stone, Kenyon and Booth. It took up all the morning and half of the afternoon session with Cullen, and John C. Dyott, Government prosecutor in the case, alternately addressing the black-gowned judges from the desk at the front of the chamber.

Cullen opened his argument by explaining that the Government had contended that Heber Nations got some of the money paid by the Griesedieck Bros. Brewery Co. by using his influence with his brother, Gus O. Nations, then Prohibition Enforcement Chief here, to let the brewery operate.

"The conviction which the Government desired to produce was that Gus was corrupt," Cullen said. "And that he was under Heber's control. The defense, on the other hand, has contended that Heber Nations was trying to help Gus catch the brewery in its illegal operation and we tried unsuccessfully to introduce his law enforcement record into the case to support that contention."

Criticism of Judge Faris. Cullen saved his choicest flights of oratory for criticism of the alleged bias of Judge Faris, to whom he referred as "my old friend and schoolmate."

"I do not think Judge Faris himself realized he had prejudiced," Cullen said. "Otherwise I am sure he would have disqualified himself. But every moment of the trial showed his opposition to the defense, and his conviction in advance of the verdict that my client was guilty."

Cullen's manner became theatrical as with changing tones of voice and differentiated gesture he gave to the court what he said was a typical passage from the trial to illustrate his contention.

Re-Enacts the Trial. "When the defense made an objection, the court's reply was 'overruled,'" he thundered, throwing out his hand in a sweeping gesture. Then dropping his voice and smiling in mock sweetness, "but when the Government made an objection, it was 'sustained.'"

"The passages between Government counsel and His Honor were soft and sweet. They were the dulcet words of the child to his mother and the honored replies of the mother to the child. There was prejudice—that, if Your Honor please, and my client suffered thereby."

The charge which Cullen dominated the "sledgehammer instruction" was made after the jury had failed to agree. In it Judge Faris pointed out that the jury had been brought together and the trial held at great expense and that a verdict should be reached if it was at all possible. Dissenting jurors were urged to look once again at the facts in the case to see if their opinions were honest and well taken.

The "Sledgehammer" Instruction. "The jury had been out 25 hours and 15 minutes before it came into court," Cullen said. "The foreman stood up in the box and announced a verdict could not be reached. Then began the 'sledgehammer' instruction. I saw the jury with before its blows like flowers before a storm."

"When it was finished Judge Faris asked if there was now a possibility of a verdict. The foreman replied: 'I think we can reach some verdict in 15 minutes.'" Cullen's voice arose to a squeak and his gestures became indecisive as he gave his conception of the "beaten" foreman.

For the Government, Prosecutor Dyott argued that Judge Faris' second instruction had been modeled after a charge once given by Judge Sanborn, presiding Judge of the Court of Appeals, and that it complied with the provisions of previous decisions upholding the legality of such a charge.

Reply for the Government.

As to prejudice, he argued that Judge Faris was correct in overruling Nations' motion for a change of venue because, while Nations' alleged prejudice, he failed to enumerate a single concrete instance of bias as the law requires.

In contrast to Cullen's dramatic addresses, with his deep-voiced imitations of the subdued, impersonal Judge Faris, Dyott, contented himself with a dispassionate review of the evidence in the case and with brief arguments designed to meet each defense allegation of error.

Nations was not in court, but his brother, Gus, now out of Government service, was present and followed the proceedings closely. The case was taken under advisement by the Court of Appeals.

Fur Coat Stolen From Cafe. The theft of a fur coat and a street dress valued at $325 from a locker in the rear of the Italian Restaurant, Eighteenth street and Washington avenue, yesterday afternoon is being investigated by detectives. Miss Emma of 4632 Westminster played in the cafe had been at work. When she later they were told a young woman occupied a table in the locker during the afternoon.

BAROMETRIC STOCK FIRM DROPS TO ZERO

Finance Department Orders Reppell Investment Co. to Cease Operations in Missouri.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 5.—The Reppell Barometric Investment Co. of Kansas City encountered adverse atmospheric conditions today in the "blue sky" division of the Secretary of State's department. After scanning the company's "barometric" charts of the stock markets and fair weather forecasts to prospective investors that they could not lose, Securities Commissioner F. T. Stockard issued an order to the company to cease its operations in Missouri.

Stockard issued a warning with the order that further operations would subject the company to prosecution. The company is operated by L. G. Reppell of Kansas City, who informed prospective investors, Stockard said, that all stock markets moved in cycles and that through his long study of the markets he was in a position to forecast the "ups and downs" of the markets. Charts illustrating the cycles were issued by the company, Stockard said.

Investors were invited and urged to deposit their funds with the company for investment as the company deemed best, Stockard said. The investor received a certificate of deposit, which provided that the company would not be responsible for any losses, and that net profits would be divided half and half by the company and investor.

The certificate also provided that the money was to stay on deposit with the company at least 12 months, "and thereafter until the first profit taking period." It made no provision for withdrawing if there were no "profit taking periods," apparently on the ground no such contingency would arise.

Stockard said the order was issued after investigation by the department and Kansas City Better Business Bureau had disclosed, as far as could be learned, that no investors had got their money back and that few had received any dividends.

KIEL ON JURY GIVING $2500 VERDICT AGAINST THE U. R. Ex-Mayor Is a Foreman in Son-in-Law's Court; Woman Auto Driver Plaintiff.

A jury in Circuit Judge Hogan's court, of which his father-in-law, former Mayor Kiel, was foreman, yesterday returned a verdict of $2500 in favor of Miss Anna Meyer, 5311 Waterman avenue, against the United Railways on account of injury suffered by her when an automobile she was driving was struck by a street car.

The accident happened at Tenth and Olive streets, Aug. 4, 1923. Miss Meyer, who alleged that the collision was due to the negligence of the motorman, sued for $2500. The defense denied liability.

It was the first time Kiel had served on a jury in 16 years, during most of which time he was ineligible on account of being mayor. The principal witness for the plaintiff in the case happened to be Dr. John H. Simon, who was defeated by a narrow margin by Kiel in his first mayoral race. Dr. Simon had been called in to treat Miss Meyer.

GAMBLING SQUAD SEIZES RACING FORMS IN RAIDS

Three Arrests Made at Two Cigar Stores and a Saloon—Two Policy Games Found.

With convictions on bookmaking charges a virtual impossibility in Circuit Court, the gambling squad under Detective Sergeant Mulcahy continued its activity yesterday, arresting three men charged with taking bets on horse races.

Two cigar stores and a saloon were raided and in each the man in charge was arrested after marked racing forms had been found. Because of the unlikelihood of getting a conviction the men were booked as "suspected of gambling" and released on bond. It is the theory of the department that frequent arrests, even without the prospect of prosecution, will serve as a deterrent to bookmaking.

Fifteen Negroes were arrested at the alleged headquarters of the Big White policy game at 3435 Lawton boulevard and 14 at the Original Delmar quarters at 2316 Franklin avenue. More than 150 were seized as evidence.

FARMER THWARTS SHOE THEFT

Twelve Cases Valued at $2000 Had Been Thrown From Train.

Deputy Sheriffs of St. Clair County last night interrupted the attempted theft of 12 cases of shoes estimated in value at $2000 at the L. & N. bluffs crossing about eight miles east of East St. Louis. Information of the activities of the robbers was furnished the Sheriff's office by a farmer living near the scene.

The cases, including two which had been emptied of contents, which had been thrown from a moving freight train, were strewn along the right-of-way over a distance of one-half mile. The robbers were frightened away by the arrival of the Deputy Sheriffs.

Blarney Stone Has New Owner.
By the Associated Press.
BLARNEY, Ireland, Feb. 5.—The Blarney Stone has a new owner, but it is just as kissable as ever when a visitor is up to date. Sir George Colthurst, owner of the castle for years, is dead, and his son has inherited the property.

ARCTIC EXPLORATION LOSING ITS ROMANCE

Proposed Aerial Expedition
Striking Contrast to First U. S. Dash.

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, Feb. 5.—On May 22, 1880, two brigantines, the "Rescue" of 81 tons and the "Advance," displacing 144 tons, sailed from the Brooklyn Navy Yard. Bound for the North, they comprised the first United States Arctic expedition.

When Capt. George H. Wilkins takes off from Point Barrow, Alaska, in March, to explore the vast uncharted areas of the Arctic Basin, his expedition will present a striking contrast to that first American effort at Polar research. Instead of two sturdy ships of the sea, constructed to withstand the buffeting of gales and the crushing power of huge ice cakes, Capt. Wilkins will command two ships of the air—gigantic Fokker planes, built for speed.

There will be yet another contrast. Capt. Wilkins' flight will be in the interest of science and the search for land. The original American expedition sought neither land nor scientific data; it was a humanitarian effort, dispatched unofficially to learn the fate of Sir John Franklin, the 60-year-old British veteran of several Arctic explorations and his expedition of 129 men.

Expected to Find Uncharted Land.
Capt. Wilkins expects to find land in the great unexplored region of the Arctic that lies to the north of the Siberian and Alaskan coasts. From these shores toward the Geographical Pole lies the only really unknown area of the Great Polar Basin. This area, it is estimated, approximates 1,000,000 square miles.

In attempting the conquest of the Arctic by air the Wilkins expedition will be devoid of much of the romance—and, in Captain Wilkins' own opinion—much of the hardship that attended the early attempts to reach the pole by ship and dog sledge.

Where the earlier explorers spent long winters on their ships locked in the ice or months pushing over the frozen surfaces on sledges, battling not only the elements, but disease and privation and sometimes mutiny, Captain Wilkins expects his journey to be a matter of but a few days.

Taking off March 21 in a plane capable of 3200 miles of sustained flight, Captain Wilkins' destination will be Spitzbergen, 2200 miles distant across the top of the world. Should land be sighted from the plane the journey will be in two jumps with a landing on the discovered territory for geographical and meteorological research.

May Be Nonstop Flight.
Sighting no land the journey from Point Barrow to Spitzbergen will be a nonstop undertaking and the expedition will pass into history almost at its inception.

Decidedly different was that first American expedition, and the one that inspired its undertaking. Under Lieut. Edward J. De Haven, and including in their personnel such figures as Kane and Hayes, whose names are written large on the records of Arctic exploration, the "Advance" and the "Rescue," spent more than a year in the Arctic and upon their return to New York in October, 1851, brought back only a hint of the fate that befell Franklin. It was the forerunner, however, of further search, including that of Kane and Hayes who participated with May 26, 1845, with provisions for three years. His expedition was last sighted two months later in latitude 74.40 N. and 66.13 W. longitude. It was 14 years afterward that Sir Francis McClintock came out of the North with the story of the disaster that overtook the expedition.

LIVING EXHIBIT OF MAYAS
London Lecturer Introduces 12-Year-Old Indian Girl.
Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News.
LONDON, Jan. 15.—To London has come a strange little girl—Emilia Vasquez, 12 years old of the curious Maya civilization of Central America. Little Emilia came as something of a sensation in a British museum lecture. A famous archeologist, Dr. Mitchell Hedges, had just returned from Honduras, and in his lecture he used many lantern slides, models and physical objects. Then he produced a live specimen of the Maya themselves.

Emilia, with brown face and squat little body, stood before the students on the platform. Until a few years ago she lived in a village built in the crater of an extinct volcano near Coban, Guatemala, the wonderful ancient city discovered in recent excavations. The girl was found by archeologists. She is a representative of one of the most ancient civilizations known.

Frank Tinney III in Hospital.
NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Frank Tinney, comedian, whose romance with Imogene Wilson, chorus girl, attracted attention several months ago, is ill in St. Bartholomew's Hospital, became known when he failed to appear in court in his latest legal tangle. George A. Hopkins, the comedian's former attorney, is suing to recover for legal services. He represented Tinney in the separation and divorce actions brought by Mrs. Tinney.

Old Dutch protects the home with

Healthful Cleanliness

Old Dutch safeguards your family with Healthful Cleanliness. Healthful Cleanliness demands that the wash stand and tub be cleaned after each using. The impurities from washing the hands, brushing the teeth and in the bath, are tenacious and readily cling to the wash stand and tub, and unless removed, become a menace to health. Ordinary cleaning or rinsing is not effective.

Old Dutch is your protection as it quickly, thoroughly and effectively removes all impurities; keeps the bathroom sparkling with Healthful Cleanliness.

Old Dutch efficiency is due to its individual and distinctive character. Its flat shaped particles are tiny erasers that erase dirt without scratching the surfaces. This is a strong safeguard, because scratches are catch-alls for impurities. Avoid hard gritty cleaners.

Use Old Dutch and enjoy the complete satisfaction of Healthful Cleanliness throughout your home. Economical—goes further—lasts longer.

WOMAN TESTIFIES IN KANSAS PARDON BRIBERY TRIAL

Sister of Penitentiary Convict Tells of Effort to Get Parole From Former Governor Davis.

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 5.—The jury trying Carl J. Peterson, former State Bank Commissioner, on bribery charges, heard Mrs. Hazel Clark tell that Gov. Jonathan M. Davis sent her to Peterson when she sought a parole for her brother, George J. Cruise. Mrs. Clark repeated the story after Judge Otis E. Hungate decided yesterday it was proper evidence to support the testimony of A. L. Oswald, Hutchinson lawyer, who has related that Gov. Davis consented to parole Walter Grundy, Oswald's client, only after Peterson had fixed the price of executive clemency at $2500.

Judge Hungate did not admit testimony of C. H. Bartholomew of Wichita, as to obtaining a parole for his son, Ernest, a few minutes after Volney Johnson, paroled bank embezzler, had taken $1250 of Bartholomew's money into the Bank Commissioner's office.

Mrs. Clark declared she had asked Davis, shortly before the end of his administration, to release her brother from the penitentiary.

"I can't do a thing for you," the Governor told me," the witness related. "Go and see Peterson."

"Peterson asked: 'What have you got? How do you live?'"

"I told him I had my husband's life insurance, my home, a car and my baby."

"You still have that Florida land, don't you?" Peterson asked me."

"I said, 'Yes.'"

Later she said, "He told me the Governor was not ready to grant a parole. So Peterson suggested that I go home and 'sit tight.' He explained that he had influence with the next Governor and that he would get George out of the penitentiary."

ATTITUDE OF PRESS TOWARD CONGRESS ASSAILED IN HOUSE

Texas Says Members Must Jazz It Up or Make Ridiculous Statements to Get Publicity.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The attitude of many newspapers toward Congress was criticized in the House by Representative Johnson (Dem.) of Texas. He declared a member of Congress must "jazz it up or make ridiculous statements," in order to get publicity.

"Many newspapers show a surprising lack of judgment in what the public wants," he said, "and still less judgment in their baneful attacks on Congress," he declared yesterday.

Defending newspapers in general, Representative Howard (Dem.) of Nebraska, said it was true that some were guilty of "unethical procedure" and "lack of respect" for Congressional procedure.

MUSIC WEEK WILL START MAY 2

Memory Contests to Feature Drive to Popularize Classics.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Otto H. Kahn, head of the Metropolitan Opera Company, today announced plans for a national movement to increase music appreciation. Club women, sponsoring the undertaking through the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will be the motive force of a Music Week, starting May 2, during which 50 musical selections, known popularly as classics, will be featured in schools, theaters, churches and at civic gatherings.

Ballots will be supplied to each audience and the members will be asked to name the compositions that are played for them. A national music memory contest will be held in Atlantic City during the biennial meeting of the General Federation the last week in May. Radio stations are to co-operate and theaters will be asked to play the approved list of selections in advance of the contests.

New Name for Koenigsplatz.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—The historic Koenigsplatz, or King's Square, fronting the Reichstag Building, has been renamed the Platz der Republik by the German government.

In former times the square, which adjoins the beautiful Tiergarten, was the scene of county fairs and carnivals, as well as military maneuvers. Three reminders of the Imperialist days remain in the square—monuments of Bismarck, Moltke and Count Roon.

PRIVATE SCHOOLS FOR RUSSIA

Pupils to Be Given Same Rights as State Students.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Feb. 5.—Abandoning its opposition to private initiative, the Soviet Government today issued a decree permitting the establishment of private technical, commercial and art schools. Students at these schools will enjoy the same rights as pupils in the State schools.

This action has been taken because of the present lack of Government conducted schools.

Quality Kroger's Meats

Let us emphasize this fact, please. You cannot buy meats that give greater satisfaction than those sold at Kroger Stores.

But possibly you have never purchased meat at a Kroger Shop. Then, very frankly, you are not in a position to judge our quality, are you? For you cannot judge the quality of any product without personally making a trial.

Because we buy the finest meats, and absolutely guarantee every cut to be unsurpassed in quality—and because we are consistently able to save you money, we have grown to be the largest retailer of meat in St. Louis.

You, too—as do thousands of the most particular families—will regularly take advantage of the opportunity we offer if you will but compare our quality and price.

HOUBEN DEFEATED TWICE BY MURCHISON; HOFF SETS A NEW RECORD NATIONALLY

German Star
Finishes Fourth
In 60-Yd. DashConqueror of Paddock and Murchison Falls on "Boards."

HOFF DELIGHTS CROWD

With Sweater and Pants On,
He Clears Bar at 13
Feet 1 Inch.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Hubert Houben, the German sprinting champion who started the athletic world by defeating Loren Murchison and Charles Paddock in races on European soil last summer, found the pace too swift in the 40 and 60 yard dashes at the Madison Square Garden last night. Houben finished far behind in each race, both of which were won by Murchison, St. Louis boy, who is wearing the colors of the Illinois A. C. C.

The result is significant in view of the fact that Houben defeated Murchison three times in three races in Germany, and also in view of Murchison's prediction that Houben would be beaten in this country many times. The German star finished third in the 40-yard dash and fourth in the 60.

Another prediction of Murchison's, that Houben would be guilty of false starting or "beating the gun" was also born out when the German broke ahead of the gun in the 60-yard dash. He was not penalized as yard as is usually the case. Houben has been defeated three times in three starts in America, finishing third once and out of the money twice.

Hoff Delights the Crowd.

To the great crowd of 10,000 spectators, the failure of Houben was perhaps not quite so impressive as the wonderful pole vaulting of the "tank," the black-haired Charles Hoff of Norway. Hoff cleared the bar at 13 feet 1 inch, a hitherto untouched indoor record. The ease and grace of his work was a thing to marvel at. When the bar was at the intermediate height he invariably cleared it on his first try, some times topping the obstacle with two feet to spare, while his Yankee rival was struggling and falling. Just what height the slim Norwegian would have topped had the garden provided him opportunity is moot question.

The limit at which the bar can be set on the Garden uprights was 13 feet 1 inch. Hoff accomplished that on his first try with a clearance of fully eight inches, and did it in the self-imposed impost of his sweater-shirt and pants.

The former world's indoor record for the event was 12 feet, made last year by Nelson Sherrill of the University of Pennsylvania.

Paulen Not at His Best.

The "millrose 600," the feature running event of the games, was won by Alan Heidrich of the New York A. C. with Johnny Gibson of Portland, second, barely nosing out Hoff for third place. Adrian Paulen, the Hollander, who had just arrived after a stormy transatlantic trip, was never a factor in the race and finished a sorry last.

America drew first blood in the international events when Loren Murchison raced to a clean-cut victory in the 40-yard dash. Murchison, Francis Huesey of Boston College, Al Miller of Harvard and Hubert Houben, were the starters and at the bark of the starter's pistol the quartet went from the mark as one. Three strides out Murchison was on opening up with Houben and Miller closely pressing. Murchison maintained his slight advantage right through to the finish, while

A Real Champion

Loren Murchison

Miller whizzed past Houben in the last few strides. Huesey made a fine effort to place, but was a few inches behind the German runner when the tape was reached. The time, 4.3 seconds, was one-fifth short of the world's record.

The New York A. C. mile relay team won a keenly contested race from its New Jersey rival, the Newark Athletic Club.

Houben Finishes Last.

The second of the international sprints, the 60-yard dash, brought an American clean-up, with Murchison once again the winner. Miller of Harvard in second place, Houben in third, and Houben, Germany's representative, last. As in the 40-yard dash, Houben was out in front in the first few strides and maintained his lead throughout. Houben broke at the start, but was not set back when a new start was ordered. He was nosed out of a placing position by Huesey in the last stride.

Morgan Taylor of the Illinois A. C. formerly of Grinnell College of Iowa and winner of the 400-meter hurdle race at the Paris Olympic games, could not get his stride working properly over the 400-meter hurdle distance and had to take second to Ray Wolff of the University of Pennsylvania. Wolff's time was 6 and 6-10 seconds.

In spite of the valiant efforts of Cecil Cooke, national quarter-mile champion and former Negro metropolitan scholastic star, Syracuse University, could do no better than second in an intercollegiate mile relay race among the teams of Georgetown, Holy Cross and Virginia. Georgetown team was timed in 3 minutes 23.9 seconds, 2.9-10 seconds slower than the record.

English Walker Beaten.

Gordon Goodwin of England was outdistanced by the American champion, Willie Plant in a three-mile walk, but got third place after a strained legament in his right leg. Harry Hankel and Mac Wales of New York were too much for the Englishman. Ray Dodge of the Illinois A. C. beat Goodwin, while Hankel and Miller closely pressing. Murchison maintained his slight advantage right through to the finish, while

Billiken Basket
Quintet Defeats
Loyola, 30 to 16St. Louis U. Has Game in Hand
All the Way—City Title Contest Tomorrow.

The St. Louis University basketball team chalked up another victory last night, 30-16, at the expense of Loyola University of Chicago, on the New Coliseum court. The Billiken quintet went into the lead shortly after the opening whistle and remained ahead throughout the game.

The first half showed flashes of good playing from Savage's proteges, whose five-man defense prevented the puzzled Chicago quint from taking a single shot at the basket in the first five minutes of play. With the Blue and White eight points ahead, Bremner finally caged one for the visitors, the first of the three baskets Loyola netted in the first period, which ended 17-6 for St. Louis.

W. Bradburn, high point man for the contest, led in the first half, with nine of the Billiken tallies, sharing honors in the second period with Kapl, each taking five points in the latter half of the St. Louis offense met a stiffer defense from the Chicago team, reinforced by the reserve guards, Dooley and Reedy.

Play Concordia Tomorrow.

St. Louis will meet Concordia Seminary tomorrow night at the Coliseum in the final at-home game of the season for the Billikens. If they defeat Concordia, the Billikens will have a definite claim on the city title, having beaten the Coliseum A. C. which was victorious over Washington University. On the basis of the previous games, the Billikens are the favorites.

A return game with Evansville College, which was defeated here, will be played at Evansville, Ind. Feb. 12, and return contests with De Paul and Loyola will be played at Chicago Feb. 19 and 20. One of the extra games will be played at home following this trip.

COMMUTER FOR 50 YEARS HAS RIDDEN 308,000 MILES

Real Estate Man Estimates he Has Spent 15,000 Hours on Trains Between Webster Groves and City.

Arthur Mittelberg, real estate man in the Wainwright Building, has ridden suburban trains to and from Webster Groves daily for 50 years. He is 76 years old. In the last half century, he estimates, he has spent 15,283 hours on suburban trains, covering 308,798 miles and paying $5904 in fares. He never was in a rail accident. When he was married, in 1876, the year St. Louis separated from the county, he made his home on a 20-acre farm at Big Bend and Rock Hill roads, where he still resides, in order to bring up his family in fresh air.

He has seen the community extend from Grand boulevard at that time until now it is well built up to a point beyond his dwelling. For nine years he walked more than a mile every day to get a Missouri Pacific train, but then the Frisco started running and he has used it for 41 years. He saw the commuters' train service build up with the population, suffer curtailment during the World War, pick up a little and now dwindle down under competition of busses and private cars, but he still rides the Frisco smoking cars. He has a commutation ticket No. 1, issued by the Frisco in 1885, costing 76 cents for 10 rides, compared with $1.44 now. His wife died in 1916. He has five children.

KIDNAPED GIRL, 15, RESCUED AND MARRIED MAN ARRESTED

Note Hastily Scrawled by Genevieve Case Leads Police to Hiding Place of Abductor.

By the Associated Press.
ONEIDA, N. Y., Feb. 5.—A hastily scrawled letter, mailed in stealth, has returned Myron Felling, alias James Phelan, a married man, home to face arraignment on a charge of abducting a 17-year-old school girl five months ago. The girl, Genevieve Case, who accepted an invitation last August to ride in Felling's car, mailed the letter on one of many automobile trips she took with him from a bungalow near Camden, N. J., where she said he kept her against her will, threatening to shoot her if she left him.

The note informed her parents of her plight and related a story of inhuman treatment.

"I am held a prisoner in a lonely cabin near a cemetery called Locust Wood," she wrote, and this led New York and New Jersey authorities to the hiding place.

"It was her beauty that was responsible," Felling explained. "I was mad about her and when the opportunity came I ran away with her."

TRAIN-PHONE TEST SUCCEEDS

Messages Sent and Received by Berlin-Bound Passengers.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Jan. 20.—Telephone communication between railway trains traveling at a high speed and subscribers in their homes and offices has got beyond the experimental stage. Passengers in the express that left Hamburg early on Jan. 5 for Berlin were able to send and receive telephone messages, and the success of the innovation is such that similar accommodation will soon be provided on other through trains.

The charge for a three-minute call from Berlin to a person traveling in this train is at present just over 5 marks. For the present telephone communications can be held by passengers in the train only with subscribers in Berlin, Wittenberg and Hamburg.

CHIROPRACTORS DISCUSS PLAN May Name Candidates for the State Legislature.

Lack of unity among chiropractors during the last six sessions of the Legislature was held responsible for the nonpassage of a bill creating a State Chiropractic Examining Board, in a talk by Thomas F. Maher before the Missouri Chiropractic Research Bureau, at the Marquette Hotel last night.

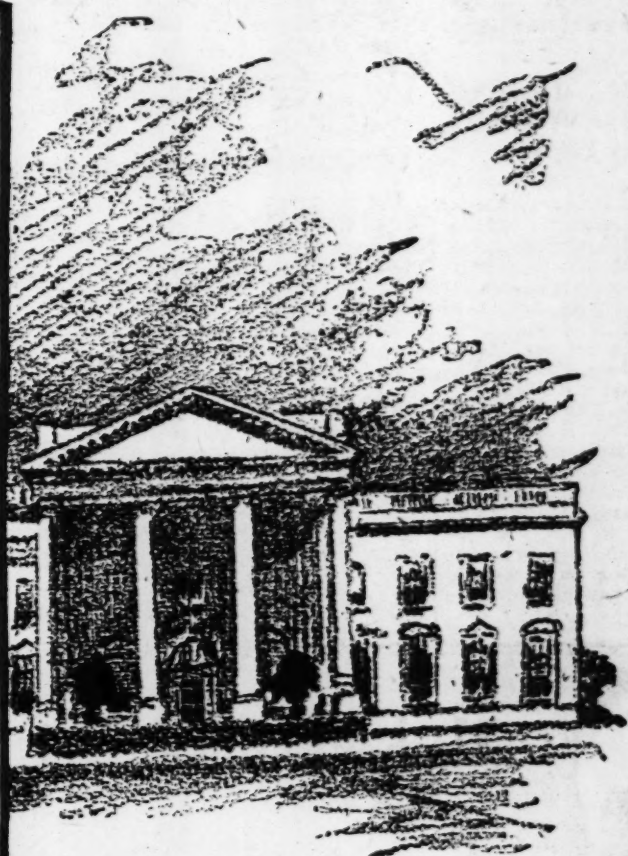

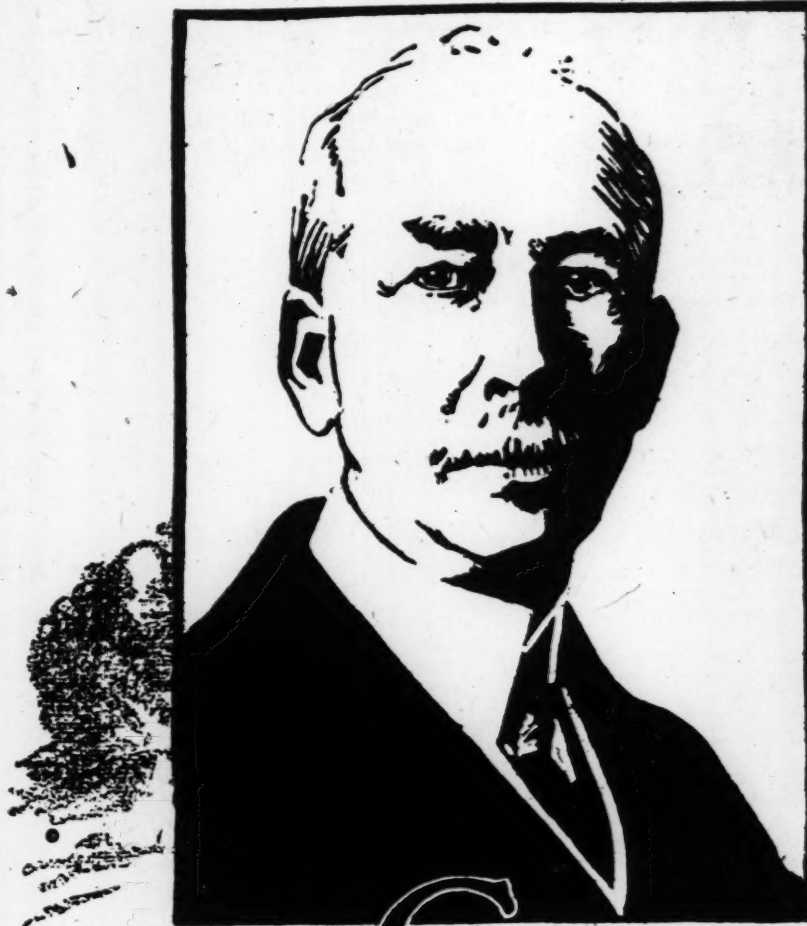

Plans were discussed for running one candidate for the Senate and possibly two candidates for the House in furtherance of the campaign for State recognition. Dr. A. E. Tate of Springfield, Ill., spoke on general conditions in chiropractic.

When William Weitzel left his home at 4532 Parkview place one morning last September, he told his wife he was going to look for work. He has never been heard from since.

His wife, Nora, 39 years old, and their three children, Bertha, 14; Walter, 12, and Howard, 9, were found by police yesterday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Robert Medley, 215 South Taylor avenue, destitute and in need of food, fuel and clothing. Mrs. Medley told policemen she had given the family a temporary home to ward off starvation.

Hare Said to Jump 30 Feet.
Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.
LONDON, Jan. 25.—A hare which would be likely to baffle a pursuing hound has arrived at the zoo in London. It has been known to leap 30 feet, a performance which no kangaroo could equal, although about treble its size. It is known as the Cape jumping hare, and in outward appearance much resembles a jerboa, although it is said to be more nearly allied to the porcupine. As its name suggests it is a native of South Africa, but it has been jumping around so much that it is found as far north as Mozambique and Angola.

Colonel House Reveals Secrets

? What did Colonel House tell President Wilson three months before the World War began?

? What did Von Tirpitz claim Germany wanted? What did he say about putting fear into the hearts of the enemies of Germany?

? What was the Kaiser's reason for refusing to sign the "Bryan Treaty"? What was his declaration about being ready for war at a moment's notice?

? What did King George of England say about knocking all the fight out of the Germans and then stamp on them?

FORMULA FOUND TO PRODUCE DRUG USED IN LEPROSY CASES

Synthetic Production of Chaulmoogra Oil Assured Through Discovery by Federal Chemist.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The discovery of a chemical formula, which will make possible the synthetic production of a drug widely used in treatment of leprosy, was announced today by Dr. Marston T. Bogert, chairman of the Committee on Chemical Research on medicinal substances of the National Research Council.

Bogert said that Dr. Roger Adams, professor of organic chemistry at the University of Illinois, had succeeded in analyzing chaulmoogric acid, the active principle of chaulmoogra oil. The basis for the discovery, he said, had been laid by Frederick B. Power of the phyto-chemical laboratory in the Bureau of Chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture.

Hitherto there has been difficulty in obtaining a sufficient quantity of chaulmoogra oil, extracted from a tree in India, to treat all of the leprosy cases. Bogert said, but with the discovery of the formula it soon will be possible to manufacture an ample supply and make great strides toward the virtual eradication of the disease.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL
AT THE AGE OF 83

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he did not believe that a "stirring" or "physic" was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity," even if the child is chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy

FRENCH TAX PUBLICITY BILL

Socialists Measure Will Probably Meet Defeat in Senate.
Copyright, 1932, by the Press and Publisher, Inc. (New York World and Post-Dispatch).

PARIS, Feb. 5.—The Chamber of Deputies has adopted an amendment to the finance bill ordering publicity for income tax declarations. Most Frenchmen have erred on the side of caution in stating their incomes and have every reason to fear the revelations of candid friends. Penalty for improper declaration is a 25 per cent increase in the tax.

The Socialists' bill will probably fail when it reaches the conservative Senate. It may be safely assumed that such a devastating proposal is unlikely for a while yet to come into operation, as it would mean too long a jump from the present system. Public sentiment is well illustrated by the shopkeepers of Rue St. Honoré, who carried out a two-hour closed shop strike as a protest against the present taxes. Their argument is that 3,000,000 merchants and manufacturers contribute 8,000,000,000 francs in taxation while 8,000,000 farmers contribute only 2,000,000,000 francs. The contention of the American tax publicity effort will find favorable breeding ground here.

bowel movement, but, best of all, it never grips, sickens or upsets the most delicate system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

It is a large, golden, bubbly, and just see for yourself.

NEW METHOD OF TREATING BLOOD DISEASES DESCRIBED

Bergel of Berlin University
 ... of Wasserman. Tells of Complete Cures He Made.
 ... to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago
 Daily News,, 1928.
, Feb. 5.—An improved
 method for fighting blood diseases announced by Dr. S. Bergel of Pharmaceutical Institute of the University of Berlin under the , Wasserman

... of the late ...
... who before his death, wrote
... for Berget's book on
...
... years Berget has made
... of diseases which con-
... of living organism
... containing micro-organisms.
... diseases also include leprosy,
... tuberculosis, and tubercu-
...
... Organic leucocytes attack
... bodies, break down the fat
... annihilate the micro-organ-
...
... Berget's method consists in arti-

...ally increasing the number of vaccines so that the "army of men" is strong enough to deal with all invaders. This he obtains by using an organic extract taken from animals which, injected into living bodies, create antibodies. The chief study has been of synthetic spirochetes, which are composed of a fat shell and internal structure.

Other remedies, such as salvarsin, destroy the fat covering, but leave the inner body intact and the organisms remaining produce the differences between the

ary, secondary and tertiary use. Bergel's method renders leucocytes strong enough to absorb the invaders completely, therefore a complete cure. He always has experimented with rabbit in all stages of the disease.
Part of Bergel's present revolutionary conclusions have been confirmed by previous workers, but requires the unqualified approval of fessor Wasserman. It is finding to now, that Dr. Bergel needed in preparing films of the
and death of spirochetes

through an attack by living leu-tens.

NO NO-PARKING ORDINANCE ENFORCEMENT BEGINS FEB. 15

Police District East of Twelfth boulevard to Fourth, and Market to Carr.

Enforcement of the new no-parking ordinance, effective east of Twelfth boulevard, between Market and Carr streets, will begin Feb. 15. Director of Streets and Sanitation, J. H. Brooks, announced today.

ordinance prohibits parking between 7 and 9:30 a. m. and 4:30 p. m., except east of Fourth and in the district between Sixth and Seventh, north of Lufkin avenue.

The ordinance replaces Traffic Code rules which have been held unconstitutional, except that the parking periods are slightly longer. Present street signs will be corrected to conform with the hours and continued in use.

"My skin began to grow rough and dry. It itched and burned causing me to scratch, and the scratching and rubbing caused eruptions. My skin became covered with small, red pimples that affected my neck, arms and limbs. I was unable to do my housework, and the irritation kept me awake for hours at a time. I read an advertisement for Natura Soap and Ointment and decided to try it for a free sample. After using purchased two cakes of Natura Soap and two boxes of Natura Ointment.

CLOSING IS IRREGULAR ON 'CHANGE

Representative Industrial Shares Reach High Records—Selling Near End of Session—Oils and Motors Features.

By Telex Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted financial review today says:

"New high records for all time were recorded by representative industrial stocks in active trading on the stock market today, despite a closing irregularity. Average prices were the highest in the history of the market, embracing almost every group of stocks traded in. Prospects of an easier money market encouraged purchases of shares. Bonds also were in good demand, action issues moving rapidly. Convertible oil and rail issues were higher, while Government bonds were well supported.

Further Advances Recorded.

"Marking up the five per cent against four per cent yesterday failed to effect more than a temporary lull in operations for the rise. After a quiet start, the market resumed its forward march in brisk trading. Oil and motor shares again attracted more attention, although New York traction continued to score spectacular gains in response to expectations of a harmonious settlement of the long standing difficulties between municipal authorities and operating companies. High priced industrial shares, including recently active specialties, were also in demand. Rail shares were also active and higher. Hudson Motor was bid up swiftly, while General Motors, Chrysler, Kelsey Wheel, White and Union Oil featured in good demand. A group in response to new merger reports. California Petroleum also was strong on reports that it was to be taken into new combination. Other independents were higher.

Specialties and Ralls Move Up.

"Interest in the rail shares was revived by reports that an early approval of the Nickel Plate merger might be expected, which could give more favorable terms to the Chesapeake & Ohio minority than at first proposed. C. & O. spurred two points, while New York Central and Baltimore & Ohio were in demand. Southwestern carriers were bid up to higher levels. Allied Chemicals moved swiftly after a setback on profit and loss statements. Solvents, International Macmillan, United Fruit, Savage Arms, Wright Aeronautical and California Packing continued to advance. Shares in the metal and leather groups were more active and higher. Explanation of the higher money rates was given by the weekly Federal reserve bank statements, showing increased redemptions, and a decline in reserve ratios for the system as a whole.

Exchange Market Narrow.

"Fluctuations were narrow and unimportant in the foreign exchange market. Profits of sterling bills increased somewhat, and the rate on London eased off from 100 to 99 1/2. French and Italian rates were a trifle easier. Demand for yen increased, however, in response to another gold shipment from Japan to the United States. Argentine and Brazilian rates were strong.

Earning Reports

"The preliminary report of Lee Rubber & Tire Co. for 1925 places net profit at $202,000, in places a loss of $24,472 in 1924. This is equal to $1.14 a share on the 214,000 shares of capital stock.

Operating income of the Illinois Bell Telephone system for 1925 increased to $11,119,000 from $9,819,000 the year before. Gross reached $60,944,657, against $56,798,976 in 1924.

Net profit of American Steel Foundries for 1925 was slightly less than the year before, at $4,009,733, against $4,787,025. Operating operations are increasing, being down at a slightly higher rate than a month ago.

SENATOR GOFF BEFORE FEDERAL GRAND JURY

Testifies in American Metals Case—Daugherty Supposed to Have Given New Evidence.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—United States Senator Guy D. Goff of West Virginia added speculation to the American Metals Co. case when he unexpectedly appeared before the Federal grand jury which is making a second investigation of the return of $7,000,000 in securities to the metal company.
The interest in Goff's appearance yesterday is due to the fact that he was first assistant to former Attorney-General Daugherty, who was in office when the American Metals stock was returned by Allen Property Custodian Thomas W. Miller to an allegedly German-controlled Swiss corporation in 1921.
Senator Goff was in the grand jury room for more than half an hour. He had previously conferred with United States Attorney Buckner and Assistant United States Attorney Kenneth D. Simpson. It was rumored that new evidence had been unearthed by the grand jury.
Among these rumors was one that Daugherty has come forward with information which he had previously refused before investigating committees in Washington.
Daugherty, it will be recalled, refused to testify here two weeks ago on the ground that he might incriminate himself. He had been asked to answer questions regarding personal bank accounts, but refused until ordered to do so by Federal Judge Thatcher. Daugherty's brother, Mal Daugherty, is understood to have testified that the bank records were destroyed.

Goff's appearance is due to the fact that the order by which the return of the metals securities was authorized was signed by him on behalf of the former Attorney-General.

Goff's testimony follows that of Adna R. Johnson, former Deputy Attorney-General, who is said to have been assigned as counsel to Miller while the latter was Allen Property Custodian.

GARLAND TO BE DENIED CHARTER FOR FARM COLONY

Investigator of Former Millionaire's Project Denounces It as Communistic Free-Love Enterprise.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
ALLENTOWN, Pa., Feb. 5.—Charles Garland, New England's former millionaire, who refused a fortune to lead what he calls the simple life, will not get a charter for his April Farm, 16 miles from Allentown. The report of Examiner Robert L. Stuart, in which he recommended that the charter be denied, has become effective.

It was this application for a charter by Garland, Paul Scott and Bettina Hovey, the latter the mother of Garland's child, which brought forth an emphatic denunciation of the activities of the colony. Attorney Stuart, in summing up his conclusions, denounced the plan as an attempt to establish a communistic colony in Lehigh County as a free-love enterprise.

April Farm life is being investigated by Federal authorities. Garland is now under bail on a statutory charge because of his acknowledged fatherhood of Barbara, child of Miss Hovey. The child died recently.

CHAPTER LVL THE PLOTTERS.

CAROLINE received Nan's urgent wire just as she was preparing to dine. She rang Gordon up at his club promptly.

"I want you to come over and have dinner with me. There's something I want to talk to you about."

"Can't do it," he declined ungraciously. "I've got dyspepsia again and I can't go your cook's food."

"You'll be over in fifteen minutes," he answered promptly.

Caroline hung up the receiver with a shrug and a smile. When her cousin arrived, punctual to the minute, she was waiting for him with Nan's telegram, asking the loan of three hundred dollars, in her hand. She gave it to him, silently.

He read it with a frown and looked up to find her smiling happily. She seemed almost on the point of doing a dance for sheer glee.

"Well, you needn't look so infernally happy about it," she grumbled. "This sounds as though she were in trouble."

"Of course she's in trouble. It's proof that she's going on the rocks. Nan's as proud as Lucifer. She'd never ask to borrow money unless it was something desperate."

"But where does that help us out?" he demanded. "If she's come to grief, it only means that she'll give up her freedom and go back to Larrabee."

"Not a bit of it, you stupid creature. If she had any such intention in her mind, wouldn't she ask him for help and not me? No, I tell you, it proves conclusively that that's the last thing she's thinking of."

He read the wire and glanced at his watch.

"I'd better hustle down to the telegraph office and file the money before we have dinner."

"I dare say it's wiser—or you'll be bolting your food and making your indigestion worse. An impatient lover, Gordie, but not a very romantic one—with dyspepsia!"

He ignored her gibe and hurried away.

Over the soup, he said:

"While I was out, I stopped to engage a reservation on the midnight train. I'm going to see Nan."

She lifted her brows.

"Do you think it's wise? She may not want you to know about her financial difficulty."

"If she's in trouble, I'm going to be there to help her," he insisted stubbornly.

"Gordie," Caroline studied him soberly, "sometimes I think you must have had the makings of a very nice man in you—before dyspepsia made you cranky."

"And before you came along to put tricky ideas in my head," he added maliciously.

She shrugged and pushed aside her unfinished soup.

"Oh, well, I might have known you'd blame me for everything. But do you know, I believe it's coming out right after all. I'd begun to get discouraged when Nan seemed to be getting along so well without us."

"Also when Larrabee stopped coming here and started rushing the blue-eyed siren in the red dress."

"Ugh, that awful creature!" Caroline shuddered. "Will I ever forget her that night at the restaurant with all those imitation rubies and her face a mess of rouge and liquid powder. How ever can she stand for her?"

"He didn't look any too happy—especially when you cut her dead. That was pretty rough."

"Why shouldn't I?" she flared. "Anyone could see she was cheap and common and probably deserved what she got. The worst of it is that they're being seen everywhere together. I think she's just an octopus that's wrapped her tentacles around him and the poor soul can't escape. He has sort of a haunted look these days."

Gordon raised his brows.

"You've seen him recently?"

"Caroline flushed and lowered her eyes.

"I happened to be downtown the other day in the neighborhood of his office and dropped in to see him. He wanted to take me to tea, but it seems that the girl had made an engagement for him to go to a studio party, or some such common thing. He said he was coming to call some night this week."

"But he hasn't come, eh? Well, I don't think he will. I've been hearing a bit of gossip at the club and as I sit it up, the girl's all right—common perhaps, but decent enough, and she looks to me like the sort that makes a man pretty comfortable—nice looking, sweet and—"

"And clinging," Caroline finished for him, mockingly. "How you men love that, fools that you are!"

"If you'd been a bit more clinging and less aggressive in your courtship of Larrabee, he'd probably be here now instead of scrib-

ing the evening with the girls, as he's likely doing."

"Oh, well, don't let's fight," shrugged Caroline, uncomfortably aware that he spoke the truth. "Go and see Nan—and good luck to you!"

CHAPTER LVII UNWARY CONFIDENCES.

IT had seemed to Nan that she had never in her whole life known such relief as when she left the telegraph office with the roll of bills, which a clerk had counted out to her, clutched tight in her gloved hand.

Her months of freedom and their attendant financial vicissitudes had taught her the value of money. Never again would she take its presence in her purse for granted.

It was a matter of only a short time before she had accomplished the necessary steps for Devitt's release from jail and she was free to drag herself wearily home and tumble into bed.

It seemed still the middle of the night—so deep was her sleep of exhaustion—when her doorbell rang. But the sunlight streaming in through her bedroom windows assured her that it was already morning and a hasty glance at the clock informed her that it was nearing eight.

She slipped into a negligee and went to the door.

She could scarcely believe the evidence of her sleep-drugged eyes when she saw Gordon Prescott on the threshold.

"Gordon! It's never really you?"

His smile showed more warmth than his face could remember.

"Sorry to disturb you so early, but my train got in at this ungodly hour and I didn't know where else to go."

"Come in. I'm so glad to see you. But wait till I run and hop into a few more clothes." She left him to enter by himself and sped up the hall.

"The living room's at the right, Gordon. Have you had breakfast?"

"Not yet," he was shedding his topcoat. "I was wondering if you wouldn't come out with me to some hotel."

"I can give you grapefruit and coffee," she called from the bedroom. "That's not much for a man, but bachelor girls have sketchy menages, you know."

"Fine for me," he said heartily. "Don't hurry. I'll glance over your morning paper that I found on the doorstep."

Nan had a quick tub and made a hasty toilet. But she was looking distractingly pretty when she finally made her appearance, rosy from her bath, her hair curling with the dampness.

"Gordon, I'm so glad to see you," she declared with full sincerity, giving him both her hands. "It's wonderful to have someone from home. How is Caroline? And how, by the way, did you find me? I dare say Caroline told you about my frantic cry for help?"

He nodded, soberly.

"That's why I'm here. I thought you might need a friend's assistance or advice."

New Place for Fur Scarfs.

Every one is accustomed to look for a vogue in fur scarfs for the spring, but they have not looked for them heretofore in the place they will wear them this year. Instead of going around the neck, they go around the waist and the hips. The scarfs are caught to the dress at the hip since modern hips do not offer sufficient hold to keep them from slipping.

They Stand Out.

Nearly every skirt stands out now. The problem now is to make a skirt stand out above the rest. One eminent Paris designer has achieved this end by making her skirts shorter in front than in the back and lining them with very stiff stuff. This was done in our grandmother's day when it was evolved to replace hoops.

Oatmeal With Chopped Nuts.

Into the top of a double boiler measure a quart of boiling water. Add one-half teaspoon salt and when boiling rapidly, stir in one pint of rolled oats. Boil for 10 minutes, then put over hot water and cook 40 minutes more. Ten minutes before serving, stir in a cup of finely chopped nut meats, any kind. Serve with brown sugar and tea.

Tom-Boy Malt Syrup.

100% PURE BARLEY MALT SYRUP. HOPPED—UNION MADE. EVERY CAN GUARANTEED. CROCKFORD CO. CO. ILL.

Quick tears sprang to her eyes.

"Oh, Gordon, how kind you are! I'd forgotten that people could be real friends and want to make one happy instead of getting one into trouble for their own selfish ends."

He averted his eyes and cleared his throat slightly.

"Tell me about everything," she cried softly. "I was married long enough to know that men mustn't be talked to seriously before they've had their morning coffee."

In an incredibly short time she had drawn a small table into the sunlight that streamed through a bow window set it with a dainty cloth and silver, and a bowl of golden jonquils. A percolator was bubbling cheerily beside her plate and giving forth a fragrant aroma. Toast was browning crisply and grapefruit, golden and juicy, waited temptingly.

"Ah, this is worth traveling all night for," Prescott remarked as he unfolded his napkin.

"Now," he said, when the meal was finished and he lit a cigarette over a second cup of coffee, and leaned back comfortably in his chair, "out with it. What's been the trouble?"

She told him, unsparing of any detail, beginning with her advent in town, continuing through the episodes of Mme. Polinska, Danforth, Daly and Devitt, respectively. She even told him about the potential raid on Brandon's studio and of Mona Vail's part in it.

When she had finished, he was frowning thoughtfully.

"You poor child," he said. "You've certainly been through a lot."

"It's so good to be able to tell somebody about it," she clasped her hands gratefully on the table. "I thought I'd die without someone to confide in—someone who understood and could sympathize—someone I trusted, as I trust you."

Again he averted his gaze and tapped the ash from his cigarette.

"About this Brandon chap—this music teacher?" he asked deliberately. "You've mentioned his name a lot in this recital. Like him?"

Nan flushed and toyed nervously with her grapefruit spoon.

"Very much I think. He—he says he's in love with me," she lifted her eyes appealingly to Prescott. "Honestly, Gordon, I don't know whether I love him or not. He's fascinating, and—oh nothing like Dane, of course, not so fine and strong and generous. But he has all the qualities that make me happy, qualities Dane lacked. He's artistic. He can understand my yearning for success, for individuality. He has an amusing sense of humor and he lives in a careless Bohemian way."

"I'm not so sure I'm exactly crazy about his Bohemia after my experiences," she added doubtfully.

"But it's plain to see you're crazy about the man," Prescott thought jealously. He believed he had come just in the nick of time.

Man Will Never Wash Dishes!

MAN may put pomade on his hair, swish along in bell trousers and wear a wrist-watch, but he will never wash the dishes!

Don't ask him to. Woman! He will share your sorrows, your burdens, your complexes and your cigarettes; but, he will never share the HOUSEWORK!

Just why a man considers washing the dishes so much more "degrading" than washing the car, washing the dog, or cleaning out the cellar, no woman has ever discovered. But he DOES.

It's "the idea" of the thing!

Of course, housework has always been woman's sphere—but then, love-making has always been man's, until recently. Now, the women have to do most of it!

A woman can't see WHY, if she goes out and helps a man to earn the dough, he should not come home and help her to mix it.

But, shush! They never will, they never will, they never WILL! And there a reason—a good, sound psychological reason.

It isn't because men really believe that housework is degrading, that they hate it so. It's because it's dull, and disagreeable, and monotonous.

And there's no GLORY in it!

When a man has cleaned and polished the car, he can take it out and SHOW IT OFF!

But, when he's polished the knives or shined the dishpan, he can't ring a dinner-bell and call in the neighbors to behold what a smart boy he's been.

When a man has dug a garden, he can go out and BRAG about it, and discuss fertilizers and seed catalogues with his rival, next door. But when he's scrubbed the bathroom floor, he can't run out and wave his scrubbing brush, or saunter over to the Joneses and discuss cleaning fluids and red ants.

Washing the dog is an exciting conflict of wills, a feat of brute mastery—but anybody can wash a helpless dinner plate without getting soap in its eyes.

No, there is no excitement in housework, and no amusement and no GLORY. It isn't a GAME—and it hasn't any thrills. It's a bore.

That's why any HE-man would rather go out and dig ditches, or wrap bundles or fight wolves or clean streets, than stay at home and wash the tea cups.

And almost any other kind would rather hide behind the piano than be caught with a dish towel. And I, for one, don't blame them.

USEFUL SWEET POTATOES

By HANNAH WING

SWEET potatoes are the most mild as well as the most versatile of vegetables. You may do what you please with these roots—from just plain baked, boiled and fried to pies, pudding and puffs—and this potato responds sweetly.

In general the mealy varieties are better to take the place of white potatoes or to combine with left-over meats, while the sweeter, moister kinds give better results in candying or in desserts such as sweet potato pie or pudding.

To make sure that you give the sweet potato a fair chance choose smooth, firm, round ones of uniform size and shape. Undersize sweet potatoes may be distinguished by cutting as they soon turn a dark green color. The time of cooking for sweet potatoes is shorter than for white potatoes.

Southern cooks have discovered many ways of varying the flavor of candied sweet potatoes which are made by shorter cooking slices of either raw or cooked potatoes in a rich syrup and butter. Sometimes they add one or more of the common spices, such as cinnamon, allspice, nutmeg and ginger; the juice of grated rind of lemon, dried orange peel or vanilla. Honey or maple syrup used instead of the ordinary syrup of sugar and water is also used to give a different flavor.

Many combinations of baked sweet potatoes en casserole are possible by the addition of chopped nuts, marshmallows, various spices or fruit, as cooked prunes, dates, apples, the grated rind and juice of oranges and lemons.

Brown sugar, maple syrup and fruit juices add a delicious flavor to these dishes. Bacon and ham or sausages may be a part of the dish or may be used as a garnish. Sweet Potato With Ham en Casserole.

One pound sliced ham, one tablespoon butter, two tablespoons brown sugar, three medium-sized sweet potatoes, two tart apples, six cooked and stoned prunes, milk.

Cut the ham in sizes suitable for serving and place it in a casserole. Add the apples pared and sliced and the cut prunes. Parboil the potatoes until slightly tender, peel and slice them over the fruit. Add butter, sugar and cover with milk. Bake in moderate oven at 300 degrees Fahrenheit.

Three Minute Journey

Temple Manning

Where Men Wear Stilts at Work.

ASCONY, a little province in the southwest of France, is a strange region full of the quaintest old customs known to man. The Gascon has always been a popular figure in French literature, but little has been said of one of his oldest customs.

The custom of wearing stilts at work is probably due to the fact that Gascony is a low-lying country, full of marsh lands. And so it is no unusual sight to find the shepherds, farmers and marketmen going about their work from a height of 10 feet in the air. From their high point of vantage they look down upon the peasant world of seeming pigmies that goes on at their feet.

The stilts are strapped to their legs below the knee and the stirrup in which their feet rest is five feet above the ground. Should they grow weary of guiding their long legs about the marshy land, they may prop themselves up with a long pole which they carry about with them as a man on the ground.

Children's Bedtime Story

Two Old Friends Meet

In time of need may good luck send
To you a good and trusted friend.

—Nanny Meadow Mouse.

NANNY MEADOW MOUSE scampered over the snow in the direction of Farmer Brown's barnyard. Nanny's legs are short. She belongs to a family of short legs. But she can make those short legs go very fast, and she did it now when she scampered over the snow in the moonlight. It didn't take her long to get out of the young orchard and into the barnyard back of Farmer Brown's house. There she stopped, uncertain which way to go. She didn't dare to go over to Farmer Brown's big barn, because she knew that Shadow the Weasel was there. It was because of Shadow's presence there she and Danny had left the barn. She didn't dare run under the back porch of Farmer Brown's house, because it was under there that Black Pussy had nearly caught her. So she stopped, uncertain which way to go.

From around back of the little house which belonged to Bowser the Hound a dark form appeared very suddenly. For just a moment Nanny held her breath. Then she recognized Peter Rabbit. Peter was an old friend. There was no reason to fear Peter.

"Oh Peter!" squeaked Nanny. "Oh, Peter, I am so glad you are safe!"

At the sound of Nanny's squeaky little voice Peter's long ears stood up straight. "Well, well, well, see who's here!" exclaimed Peter. "What under the moon are you doing up here, Nanny Meadow Mouse? You are the last person in the world I expected to see. Where is Danny?"

"I don't know," squeaked Nanny. "I don't know, and I wish I did. I'm looking for him. Haven't you seen him, Peter Rabbit?"

"If I had I wouldn't have asked you where he is, would I?" demanded Peter.

Nanny shook her head. "That was a silly question," she confessed, "but I have had such a dreadful night so far that I don't know what I'm saying." Then she told all her troubles to Peter Rabbit, and when she was all through she felt better. It often does make one feel better just to tell one's troubles to another.

Peter listened without once interrupting. "Well," said he, when Nanny had finished, "I should say that you have had plenty of excitement. I had a little myself when Reddy Fox surprised me, but I knew that if Bowser the Hound

"Well, well, well! See who's here!" exclaimed Peter was at home, and I thought he was, that I would soon get rid of Reddy. Now the question is, where shall we look for Danny Meadow Mouse?"

"Do—do you mean that you will help me find him?" cried Nanny in her funny squeaky little voice. Peter nodded. "Of course I mean it," said he. "Why shouldn't I? Two heads are better than one. Two pairs of eyes are better than one pair. Four ears are better than two ears."

"Oh, Peter!" was all that Nanny could say. But right away she forgot all her troubles. It was just as if she hadn't had any narrow escapes. It was just as if she hadn't any dreadful frights. Somehow she felt that between them they would be able to find Danny Meadow Mouse.

Peter scratched a long ear with a long hindfoot. Then he scratched the other long ear with the other long hindfoot. Then he stroked his whiskers. All this was a sign that Peter was thinking. "Which way did Danny come out from under the porch?" he asked at last. Nanny told him that Danny had run out through the hole under the end of the porch. "Then," declared Peter, "he went straight over to the barn."

"No," declared Nanny, "he wouldn't have gone there because of Shadow the Weasel."

Peter sat up and looked all around him. "I know where he is!" he exclaimed. "He's over in the henhouse."

Spring now is but a memory where wings were wont to gleam, and in that vanished Arcady the rose is but a dream. Yet closer, through the gnawing cold, I clasp the thought of May and dearer, when the blast is bold, I hold each April day. So other memories that shine from out the bygone years finds in my heart a lighted shrine to bygone hopes and tears. And dearer still I hold today than April sun and dew, these old sweet thoughts that with me stay, enduring dreams of you!

Fish Turbot.

Take two pounds of fresh cod-fish cut from the shoulders, and broil it in the usual way. Drain and cool the fish, then remove all skin and bones and flake it fine. Add to it a grated onion, pepper, salt, and put a layer in the bottom of a well-buttered baking dish. Dust with a few fine crumbs, dot with butter and add another layer of fish and so on until the dish is filled, having crumbs on top. Dot the top with butter, dust with seasoning and pour over a small cupful of rich cream. Bake for 20 minutes to a half hour in a medium oven. If desired, drawn butter may be served with the fish.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Homely Wisdom.

Never use very hot water on linoleum or oil cloth.
When chopped nuts are used in a cake, the icing may be omitted.
Glycerine rubbed over corks will prevent their sticking in the bottles.
When necessary to store linoleum, keep it away from excessive heat and moisture.
If the starch box is empty the same amount of corn starch will do the same service.
Freshly ironed clothes should be hung up to thoroughly air and dry before folding. Otherwise they will have a nasty odor.

brown. Baste many times, however.

Needs Cleaning.

If the velvet dress has a shabby appearance, treat it to a trip to the cleaner's to be cleaned and steamed. It will be returned to you like new, with a freshness impossible to obtain at home.

Poached Fillets.

Butter over a frying pan and lay the fillets in it, then pour over a cupful each of fish stock and hot water, add a little pepper and salt and cook gently for ten minutes. Lift with a skimmer to a hot dish and then add a cupful of cream to a cupful of the broth, season, thicken with white roux and pour over the fillets. Garnish with sprays of fresh water cress.

Just Once.

When broiling a whole fish, turn it but once. Broil first on the fleshy side until done and then turn and cook the other side until a nice
